

Methodist Ladies' College, LAUNCESTON, TASMANIA.

Founded by, and under the Government of the Methodist Church of Tasmania.

—:O:—

President : REV. SPENCER WILLIAMS.

Head Master : G. THORNTON LEWIS, B.A. London.

Bedford Medallist, Morley and Taunton Scholar, Woodhouse-grove School; honours and prizeman, University of London; Emeritus Professor of Classics, Graff Reinert College; late (for eight years) Government Inspector of Schools, Cape Colony; recently head master (acting) Horton College.

Lady Principal : Miss SWINDELLS, whose residence on the continent, where her education was completed, has given her that command of modern languages which is seldom acquired except by natives.

Assisted by a staff of highly efficient resident and visiting teachers.

The object of this institution is to secure for girls a high class education in all its branches, and to foster and maintain a healthy moral tone among the pupils, and surround them with Christian influences. The building is handsome and commodious, and furnished with all the modern appliances requisite for a superior school. The property, which is situated within a mile of the town, commanding a magnificent view of the surrounding country, is tastefully laid out and provided with ample recreation grounds.

The well-known salubrity of the Tasmanian climate offers additional inducements to students from the other colonies.

Pupils from the neighbouring colonies who have paid the usual fare by the T.S.N. Company's steamers, after six months' residence at the College, are granted a free passage back.

Special attention is given to physical education, and ample opportunities offered for recreation.

Religious instruction of a strictly undenominational character given in all the classes by the President Prospectuses on application to the President; or, the Hon. Secretary, Mr. F. Safford, George street, Launceston.

CHRIST'S COLLEGE, HOBART.

TASMANIAN GAZETTEER.

THE island of Tasman, or as it was formerly called Van Diemen's Land, was discovered on the 24th November, 1642, by Abel Jansman Tasman, an enterprising and skilful Dutch Navigator, who was commissioned by Anthony Van Diemen, then Governor General of the Dutch East Indies, to explore the "Great South Island." Tasman anchored in Frederick Hendrik Bay (so named after the Stadholder of Holland) on the South Eastern Coast December 1st, 1642, and named the newly found land, Van Diemen, after the Governor General, Anthony Van Diemen. This name was changed to Tasmania, January 1st, 1856.

Tasman's stay on the Island was limited to five days, when he sailed away for New Zealand, his impression being that the land formed part of the great Mainland. Several other visits were paid to this island but without any great results till 1803; when the Island was taken possession of by Lieutenant John Bowen, of H.M.S. Glatton, who with Mr. Jacob Mountgarret as surgeon, Mr. Williams as storekeeper, a detachment of the New South Wales Corps, and ten male and six female prisoners, left Sydney in the Lady Nelson, on June 3rd, for the purpose of forming a penal settlement, and of forestalling the French Exploring Expedition under Commodore Baudin, which was believed to be casting longing eyes on the Island.

Lieut. Bowen who bore the title of Commandant and Superintendent, landed at a spot on the banks of the Derwent River, and eventually Risdon was chosen as the site of the future convict establishment. Bowen was succeeded in 1804 by Col. David Collins, formerly Judge Advocate of Sydney. Collins disapproving of the spot selected for settlement, selected another locality on the shores of Sullivan's Cove, on the opposite side of the Derwent, as the site for the future town and it was named Hobart Town, after Lord Hobart, at that period Secretary of State for the Colonies (on January 7th, 1881, this name was altered to Hobart.)

Col. Collins expedition sailed from England April 24, 1803, reached Port Phillip in October, and left there on January 27, 1804; Collins not deeming Port round a suitable place for the settlement. The expedition consisted of H.M.S. Calcutta, 50 guns, under the command of Captain D. Woodriff, R.N., and of the hired transport Ocean, 481 tons register. Besides prisoners and marines it comprised a number of individuals appointed to fill the various offices and departments of the infant settlement. Among others Rev. R. Knopwood, chaplain, E. Bromley, Surgeon Superintendent, W. Auson, Colonial Surgeon, A. W. H. Humphrey, Mineralogist, Lieut. Fesbroke, Deputy Commissary General, G. P. Harris, Deputy Surveyor, Thomas Clarke and William Paterson Superintendents of convicts. There were 307 convicts and 12 women (wives of convicts) also 5 soldier's wives, the entire party being under the guardianship of a detachment of the Royal Marines, consisting of 33 privates, 3 sergeants, 1 drummer, 1 fifer, officered by Lieuts. W. Sladden, J. M. Johnson and Edward Lord, with Lieut.-Col. David Collins as supreme head. The last of this party Mr. Thos. Wiggins who was born on the ship Calcutta, June 11th 1803, died in September, 1884. The oldest resident of Tasmania born at Risdon 1805, Mr. John Hayes, died early in 1884. Soon after landing, scurvy prevailed for some time, and the aborigines too were found to be very troublesome. A hostile encounter took place between about 500 of them (supposed to belong to the Oyster Bay tribe) and the troops, which resulted in 50 of the natives being shot. This collision was the beginning of the Black War which continued with little intermission till 1832, when the majority of the natives had been exterminated. In 1804 Port Dalrymple was settled from Sydney by Col. Paterson; the entrance to the Tamar and the country having been previously surveyed, Paterson took possession October 10th, the debarkation taking place on the 14th. His party consisted of 63 soldiers and a few convicts. Two years later a more suitable locality was found for the new settlement at what is now called Launceston, named after Launceston in Cornwall, in honor of Governor King who was born there.

The colony made little progress at first, and the inhabitants suffered many hardships, and were frequently reduced to great straits, having for many years to suffer a desperate struggle for existence. Kangaroo was purchased by the commissariat at 8d. per lb., and flour was £112 per ton. The wheat crop failed in 1807 and the price of that article rose to £4 per bushel, which would make flour about £200 per ton. The selling rate was regulated by a garrison order, and armed sentinels mounted guard over the wheatfields, so valuable had the corn become. In 1808 the position of the settlement was fearful, as by July all the wheat and maize had been consumed, and in the following month, the salt beef and pork gave out and Kangaroo meat had to be the means of subsistence. In October all the barley was eaten up, and 1½ lbs. rice was issued as the weekly ration of each man. Only one vessel arrived during this year from Bengal with sugar which was purchased by the Government and issued to the settlers. In 1809 the settlers were allowed to pay their debts to the Crown in wheat at £15 per bushel. It was not till nearly three years after the settlement that the first sheep and cattle were imported. On January 8th, 1810, the first newspaper issued in Tasmania the Derwent Star and Van Diemens Land Intelligencer was published. It was of quarto size, issued fortnightly at 2s. per copy. After the death of Col. Collins, which occurred suddenly, March 24th, 1810, Lieut. Lord Captain Murray and Lieut. Col. Grells were successively the acting Commandants of the Colony. On the night of Col. Collins' death, two officers of the Government, for some unknown reason burned all the official books, papers, and documents they could find. During Captain Murray's administration Governor Macquarie visited the Island and partially traced out the future City of Hobart, naming many of the principal streets. The population at this time was estimated at 1,500. Population began to stretch over to Launceston, the vicinity of which was more favorable for cultivation than that of Hobart, and in 1812 Major Gordon was appointed Commandant at Port Dalrymple. On February 4th, 1813 Col. Thomas Davey became the Lieut. Governor, and though a man of course and rough habits, with little regard for conventional rules, yet during his régime the Colony steadily progressed.

The ports were open for general commerce in June, 1813. In 1816 the first corn was exported to New South Wales and whales were caught in the Derwent. During this year Captain Kelly discovered Macquarie Harbour and Port Davey. On June 1st in the same year the Hobart Town Gazette and Southern Reporter was first published by Andrew Bent, Mr. Emmett being the first official editor. In 1824 the title of the paper was changed to the Gazette and Van Diemens Land Advertiser, it ceased to appear on August 19th, 1825. The Hobart Mercury was first published as a daily paper on January 1, 1858. During its career it has incorporated the Colonial Times and Tasmanian Daily News and Courier. Col. Davey's administration lasted about four and a quarter years, when he relinquished his appointment to settle on the land but finally returned to England and died there May 2nd 1823. Col. William Sorell, 48th Regiment, assumed the Governorship in 1817, (April 9th) Bushranging about this time became prevalent throughout the Island; large rewards were offered for the death or capture of these robbers, and in some instances this resulted in their apprehension or destruction. During the second year of his administration a census was taken, and statistics regarding the social and agricultural position of the Colony were collected. The population was then 3,240. Early in 1819, Judge Wyld, from Sydney, held the first criminal sitting, all prisoners prior to that date having been sent to New South Wales for trial. In 1820 the first importation of Merino lambs took place from Mr. McArthur's flocks. Of 500 shipped about 200 were landed, which were distributed to the settlers by lot. The census taken in 1821 showed as follows:—population 7,400; sheep 182,468; cattle 34,790; horses 550 and 14,910 acres of land under cultivation. Successful industry evoked commerce, 26 vessels arrived and sailed, 20,000 bushels of wheat were exported to Sydney, and a weekly post was established between Hobart and Launceston. In 1818 the first ship bringing passengers direct from England arrived; and in 1821 the first wool consisting of 12 bales was exported from Tasmania to London, realizing 7d. per lb., or £88 for the entire shipment. On October 29th, 1820, the first gathering of Methodists took place. The place of worship was a house in Collins Street, Hobart, the worshippers numbering 8. In the previous year the Rev. B. Carvosso on his way to New South Wales had initiated the Wesleyan Ministry by holding services. On May 13th, 1821, the first Sunday school in the Island was established. The Presbyterian Church was founded in 1823 by the Rev. A. Macarthur. The first Congregational Church was not established till 1830.

In the early part of 1824 the Colonists petitioned the Home Government for independence, this petition was favorably received, and in December of the following year Van Diemen's Land was erected into an independent colony. On January 3rd 1825, the first newspaper issued in Launceston called the Tasmanian Gazette and Launceston Advertiser appeared, Mr. George Terry Howe being the printer. In 1827, the Governor, Col. Arthur divided the colony into districts, and placed each division under the charge of a stipendiary magistrate. In 1827 also the Archdeacon of New South Wales made his first visitation. About this time the Van Diemens Land Company commenced operations, having received a grant of 250,000 ultimately increased to 350,000 acres, and the first land sales took place. In 1828 the Queen's Orphan Asylum was founded it was closed in 1879. On February 9th, 1829, Mr. J. P. Fawcner, the founder of Melbourne started the Launceston Advertiser. After the departure of Col. Arthur the Government was administered from October 31st 1836 to January 6th 1837 by Lieut. Col. Snodgrass. Sir John Franklin afterwards lost in the Arctic Regions (in June 1847) was the next Governor, assuming office January 6th 1837, under whom Tasmania made great progress. In his efforts he was much assisted by his noble wife, the late Lady Franklin. He left the colony in August, 1843 and was succeeded by Sir. Eardley Wilmot, who governed but a short time (from August 21st, 1843 to October 13th, 1846) the measures he initiated giving great offence; these and rumours affecting his moral character (believed to be false) ultimately leading to his recall. He died however at Hobart, February 3, 1847, it is said of a broken heart, and was honored with a public funeral. After his retirement the government was for a short time administered by Mr. C. J. Latrobe, the first Governor of Port Phillip. The Launceston Examiner began its career March 12th, 1842, absorbing the Launceston Advertiser and eventually the Cornwall Chronicle being now the oldest existing paper in the Colony. The diocese of Tasmania was founded by Letters patent on August 27th, 1842, when Dr. Russell France Nixon was constituted first Bishop. Two eras in the history of the colony occurred under the Governorship of Sir William Thomas Denison, who took office January 26, 1847 one being the cessation of transportation in 1853, which however was only brought about by the most strenuous efforts on the part of the colonists of Australia generally, and the other the discovery of gold in Australia, 1851. The latter fact had an untoward influence on the fortunes of the colony, for a long time leading to a great exodus of the population, which more or less continued until the last few years. Another event of great importance was the establishment of Representative Government. Sir Henry Young succeeded Sir William Denison in the Governorship of Tasmania, being the first Governor-in-Chief, and filled the office from January 8th, 1855 to December 10th, 1861. During his time the Electric Telegraph was introduced, the division of the Colony into municipalities took place, the metropolis was lit with gas, and railway communication was initiated and the first submarine cable connecting Tasmania with Victoria was laid. Colonel Gore was the next vice regal representative and remained in office till December 30th, 1868. In December 1868 H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh visited the colony. On January 15th, 1869 Mr., now Sir Chas. DuCane, K.C.M.G., arrived in the colony. He mixed freely in the amusements and movements generally of the colonists and became very popular. During his Governorship the opening of the Launceston and Western Railway took place (February 10, 1871) and telegraphic communication with Victoria was successfully completed, and the discovery of tin at Mount Bischoff was made by James Smith, December 4th 1871. In July, 1874, Mr., now Sir F. A. Weld formerly Governor of West Australia was gazetted to the Governorship of the Colony, being sworn in on January 13th of the following year. He completed his term of office in the early part of 1880 and was succeeded by Sir G. C. Strahan, K.C.M.G., late Governor of the Barbadoes and Windward Islands, who, however, only arrived in the colony December 7th, 1881, having in the mean time administered the Government of the Cape Colony pending the arrival of Sir Hercules Robinson. After the retirement of Mr. Weld the government was administered for a short time (April 6th to October 21st) by Sir Francis Smith, the Chief Justice who was afterwards relieved by Sir J. H. Lefroy. This gentleman during his short time of administration (October 21st, 1880 to November 25th, 1881) quite won the hearts of the colonists, becoming the most popular Governor they had had for years. During the period of his sojourn he is said to have promoted in every possible way the social, material and highest interests of the people under his rule, and in all works of benevolence and philanthropy was worthily seconded by Lady and Miss Lefroy. Sir George C. Strahan whose term of administration expired September 28th, 1886, acquired a considerable degree of popularity by availing himself of every opportunity of gaining a thorough knowledge of the resources and requirements of the colony. Sir G. C. Hamilton has been appointed as successor.

During 1885 several of the projected railway extensions were completed and opened. The Launceston and Western line now terminates at Formby, and the line between the Corners and Fingal and Oatlands and Parattah are opened for public traffic. It is fully expected these extensions will result in a considerable development of the agricultural and mineral resources of the colony.

GEOGRAPHICAL FEATURES.

Tasmania is about one sixth smaller than Ireland and a little larger than the Island of Ceylon. Its length is 170 miles, and its greatest breadth 200 miles, whilst the area is about 24,330 square miles or 15,571,500 acres, exclusive of lakes and islands, which belong to the colony, the aggregate of these being 1,203,500 acres, including these the total area is 16,788,000 acres, or 26,215 square miles. The principal islands belonging to Tasmania are fifty-five in number. The Furneaux group at the east end of Bass's Straits and off the N.E. corner of Tasmania, including Flinders Island with an area of 513,000 acres; Cape Burren Island 110,000 acres, and Clarke Island 20,000 acres; besides these there are Chapell Island, Kent's Group aggregating about 27,000 acres. These islands are inhabited by persons who procure a living by seal fishing and preserving Mutton birds. They numbered by the census of 1881, 153 males and 126 females. Other Islands of importance are King's, Robin's, Hunter's, Waterhouse, Swan, Schouten, Maria, Sloper, Franklin, and Huon Islands. The entire population of the islands in Tasmanian waters by census in 1881 was 627.

Tasmania may be described as having two mountain chains separated by the central district through which is the communication between the north and south of the islands. That to the east or the dividing range, winding in its course in the form of an irregular Z. The island has an average height of 3750 feet and an average distance of 40 miles from the sea, the highest peak is Ben Lomond 5,910 feet. The Western Chain consists of an elevated table land averaging 3,000 feet in height, in the centre of the island which contains all the large lakes, and from which diverge the numerous ranges in all directions except to the eastward. The principal peninsulas of the colony are Freycinet on the east coast, its western shore being washed by the waters of Oyster Bay, on the south east is Forestier Peninsula, connected to the mainland by the East Boy Neck; Tasman Peninsula is a continuation of Forestier and is joined to it by the Eagle Hawk Neck. Ralph Bay Peninsula is also on the south eastern side of the island, jutting out into Storm Bay. The various Capes are on the Northern coast from west to east, Cape Grim, Circular Head, Rocky Cape, Table Cape, Port Sorell Point, Flinders Point, Stony Head, Waterhouse Point and Cape Portland; on the Eastern coast are: Cape Naturaliste, Eddystone Point, St. Helen's Point, Long Point, Cape Tourville, Cape Bonganville and Cape Bernier; on the Southern coast are Cape Pillar, Cape Raoul, Tasman Head, Prunin Head, South East Cape, (the most southerly point of the island, South Cape and South West Cape; on the Western coast are: Rocky Point, Point Hibbs, Cape Sorell, Sandy Cape, Bluff Point and West Point. The island is well watered and abounds in rivers, rivulets and creeks, many of them rising from the lakes of the Table Land, the average fall to the sea being estimated at 93 feet per mile. The principal rivers are: the Derwent, about 130 miles long, on the estuary of which is Hobart; the Huon about 100 miles long, navigable, and running through a fertile and heavily timbered and fruit growing country; the Mersey, and the Tamar, a tidal river formed by the confluence of the North and South at Launceston, a stream of considerable magnitude, navigable for forty miles from its mouth to Launceston for vessels of 600 tons drawing 16 feet of water, and to Rosevears, 15 miles from Launceston for vessels of much greater draught. The west coast of the island is bold, rocky, and inhospitable; but there are at least three accessible ports. The principal harbors on the west coast are Port Davey (much frequented by Whaling vessels) Pieman River and Macquarie Harbour. On the north, Stanley at Circular Head, Enn Bay, Port Frederick at the mouth of the Mersey, Port Sorell, Port Dalrymple at the mouth of the Tamar, Anderson Bay, Ringarooma Bay, and Waterhouse Roads between the two last mentioned Bays; on the east coast George's Bay, Oyster Bay, Prosser Bay, Spring Bay and Fortescue Bay. The south and southeast coasts are studded with safe bays and harbours, the principal being Port Arthur, Storm Bay, Norfolk Bay, Frederick Henry Bay, D'Entrecasteaux Channel, Port Esperance, Southport and Recherche Bay. There are numerous and extensive fresh water lakes on the elevated tablelands, the largest being the Great Lake in the county of Westmoreland, 3,822 feet above sea level and covering an area of nearly 28,000 acres. Lake Sorell, county Somerset, 3,000 feet above sea level, 12,300 acres; Lake St. Clair, 3,239 feet above sea level, 8,000 acres; and Lake Echo, county Cumberland, occupying 8,500 acres. The climate is remarkable for its mildness being by its geographical position removed from the extremes of heat and cold.

FAUNA AND FLORA.

There are in all about 220 species of Fauna indigenous to the colony comprising 26 Mammals, 156 birds, 6 lizards, 3 snakes, 7 frogs and 21 freshwater fishes. Of the Mammals 12 are peculiar to Tasmania, and 15 of the bird kind are also peculiar to Tasmania. The larger animals indigenous to the colony are the kangaroo, wallaby, native ~~beaver~~, native devil, wombat, ~~otter~~, platypus, opossum, and tiger cat, whilst the smaller ones are the kangaroo rat, bandicoot, and native cat. The majority of these are nocturnal in their habits. Among reptiles are snakes, tiger, copperhead and whip, nearly all venomous; lizards and iguanas, also tortoises, scorpions, centipedes and tarantulas. Insect life of all kinds is almost as prevalent as in the other colonies; as many as 260 species have been described. The feathered tribes are abundantly represented both in land and aquatic birds, among the former are emus, (now almost extinct in their native state) black and white cockatoos, jays, magpies, white-hawks, crows, eagles, sparrow-hawks, owls, moreporks, quail, bronzewinged-pigeons, white cockatoo, parrot, parroquets, thrushes, robins, diamond birds, larks, honeysuckers, blue wrens, and many others. Among the frequenters of the lakes, lagoons and the sea coast, are black swans, snipe, herons, bitterns, teal, duck, tern, penguins, petrels, pelicans, gulls, cormorants or shag, &c. Among the salt water fishes are the king fish, trumpeter, flounder, garfish and gurnard. The principal fresh water fish are the eel, blackfish, rock cod, mullet, trout and lamprey. Special attention is now being given to oyster and other fisheries. Very many animals, birds and fishes have been introduced and acclimatized with success. There are about 1,100 known species of plants of which about 1,000 are indigenous, of these about 22 genera, and 270 species are peculiar to the island. The larger timber is the blue gum (which in some of the southern parts of the island attains a height of 350 feet and a girth of 100 feet) and the Huon Pine used for boat building and other constructive purposes. The population of the colony by the census of April 3rd 1881 was 115,705 61,162 males, and 54,543 females. Of these 627 are resident on the islands in Tasmanian waters

ABORIGINES.

The origin of the natives can only be guessed at. It is believed that the race is of greater antiquity, and much older than the native race of the Australian mainland. At the present time not a single representative is in existence, the last of the race, Traganini or Lallah Rookh, having died in May, 1876, at the advanced age of seventy-three. The last man, William Lanne (King Billy), died at Hobart, March 3, 1869, aged 34 years. At the first settlement of the colony the aborigines numbered some thousands, probably four or five, but from the time of the massacre at Risdon in 1803 till 1832 war was ruthlessly waged between them and the colonists. In 1830 an attempt on a gigantic scale called The Line was made to drive the aborigines into a corner of the island; it signally failed, only one man being captured, but the exhibit of number and power is thought to have had some influence on the blacks and to have led to some extent to the success of the efforts of Mr. Robinson. In 1830 he undertook the part of conciliator or pacificator, and after five years of untold dangers and hardships with the assistance of some friendly blacks, was successful in gathering in the whole of the remains of the Tasmanian race, who were placed on South Brun Island. From here they were transferred to Gun Carriage Island, thence to Flinders Island; and eventually the remnant, reduced to 14 souls, was transported to Oyster Cove, a few miles from Hobart. In 1854 they numbered but sixteen, and from that time they gradually died off at their several settlements, efforts were made to Christianize them and teach them the arts of civilization, but the results were not very encouraging, and the change of mode of living and other causes had a detrimental effect and considerably hastened their end.

EDUCATIONAL AND PHILANTHROPIC INSTITUTIONS.

The higher branches of education are under the management of a council: the lower under the Government. There are six State schools in Hobart, two in Launceston, and at least one in every country township, supported by the Government and open to all. From these schools exhibitions are obtainable by examination in each year to one of the superior schools, of which there are four—Horton College, Hutchin's School, Christ College, and a Church Grammar School. These exhibitions are 48 in number and vary from £16 13s. 4d. per annum, twelve being available each year for four years. During 1884 ten in all were awarded. The Council of Education offers annually five exhibitions of the value of £20 per annum each, tenable for four years, and is empowered to hold local examinations similar to those held annually at Oxford and Cambridge; to confer annually two scholarships and the degrees of Associates of Arts on such candidates as have acquired the prescribed standard. To male associates between the ages of 16 and 20, who have resided in the colony at least five years preceding candidature, are open the Tasmanian scholarships, of which two of £200 per annum each, tenable for four years at a British University are offered for competition every year. Two minor scholarships of £40 per annum each tenable for two years within the colony have also been established to enable senior Associates of Arts to pursue their studies until they are in a position to compete for the scholarships. Examinations for the Gilchrist scholarship are held annually. It is of the value of £100 per year tenable for three years at the Edinburgh or London Universities. It is open to any youth residing in the Australian colonies between 16 and 22 years of age. The attendance of children at school is compulsory. There are four ragged schools in Hobart supported by private subscriptions and Government aid. Local examinations are now held in Hobart for matriculation and for degrees in connection with the London University and also for matriculation at the Melbourne and Sydney Universities. During 1882 a Bill was introduced to establish a "University of Tasmania," but it was negatived by a large majority. There are thirty public libraries in the colony containing 37,138 volumes. The largest of these is the Tasmanian Public Library (A. J. Taylor, Esq., librarian) at the Town Hall, Hobart. There is a general hospital at Hobart, one at Launceston, another at Campbelltown, and one at Mount Bischoff for the care and relief of the sick and injured. A hospital for contagious diseases was established at Hobart in 1879. There are two pauper establishments for the poor; one at Newtown and one at Launceston. A Home for the Friendless was initiated by Governor Lefroy in 1881. There are two hospitals for the insane, one at New Norfolk and one at Hobart (Cascades).

MINERAL AND OTHER RESOURCES.

The colony is divided into six mining districts—Northern, Southern, Eastern, North Eastern, Western, and North Western. A department of mines is now established. The mineral resources of the colony which had been neglected for many years, received a great impetus at the end of 1872 by the discovery by Mr. James Smith of extensive deposits of tin ore at Mount Bischoff in the north west quarter of the island. Tin has since been found spread over a considerable extent of country in the opposite or north-east corner of the island, and has now become one of the most important products of the colony. Gold mining has now also become a recognised industry, and the returns from some of the fields have been very encouraging. Timber is plentiful, the wood of the gumtree being of great value for ship building purposes, railway sleepers, and housework, and all purposes where strength and endurance are required. The pine and wood of many other trees is well adapted for furniture, fittings, and indoor work generally. The wattle bark is largely exported for tanning purposes. Tasmanian iron has been found to possess some remarkable properties, one of which is that steel made from it is as malleable as soft Swedish iron. It appears to be extensively distributed, but has not been turned to practical account, owing to the ore being impregnated with chromium which has greatly depreciated its value for manufacturing purposes. Slate of an excellent quality exists near Lefroy. Near Brown's River, a few miles from Hobart, is a shot tower where a large quantity of shot is turned out.

At the Melbourne Exhibition of 1880 Tasmania obtained silver medals for exhibits of wool, shot, whalebones, barley, oats, hops, and castis; bronze medals for peas, beans, and grass seeds, sandstone, wattle bark, and oils, and a certificate equal to silver for tin.

ELECTRIC TELEGRAPHS.

A triple line of telegraph connects Hobart and Launceston; there is a line between Formby and Launceston, and the wires now extend to nearly every township of any importance, there being 140 stations and 1709 miles of wire exclusive of 180 miles of cable. In April, 1869, telegraphic communication was established by means of a submarine cable between Tasmania and Victoria. The shore ends are at Low Head (Tamar) and at Flinders, near Cape Schank, Victoria.

This cable is worked by the Extension Australia and China Telegraph Company under a guarantee from the Tasmanian Government. During 1884 there was a prolonged stoppage owing to the cable having been worn away. It was with much difficulty repaired. It is intended to duplicate the cable.

HOURS.—Office hours are from 8.30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Hobart and Launceston offices from 8.30 a.m. till midnight. Open on Sundays from 8.30 a.m. till 9.30 a.m. and 8.30 p.m. and 9.30 p.m. Submarine cable open only the first half of each of the above hours.

SUPERINTENDENT OF TELEGRAPH.—Robert Henry.

SCALES OF CHARGES—INTER-TASMANIAN TELEGRAMS.

Ten words and under, 1s.; every additional word, 1d. Press messages for publication 100 words and under, 1s. 6d.; each additional 50, 6d. Minimum charge after usual hours, 1s. 6d. Messages between central and suburban offices in Hobart and Launceston, 6d. for first 10 words, 1d. each additional word.

INTERCOLONIAL.—Ten words or under from Tasmania to Victoria, 2s.; each additional word, 2d. Do. to New South Wales, 2s. 6s.; each additional word, 3d. Do. to South Australia, 3s.; each additional word, 3d. Do. to Queensland or Western Australia, 4s.; each additional word, 4d. Address and signature must not exceed ten words.

To New Zealand ten words or under, 9s. 6d.; each additional word, 11d.; address and signature being charged for at per word.

To London 10s. each word. Address and signature charged for. Words containing more than ten letters count two words.

REUTER'S TELEGRAPH COMPANY.—Agent at Hobart, A. F. Maning.

Messages in cipher are charged double rates. Messages are forwarded from any of the stations on the main line of road to the surrounding districts at a moderate charge for portage.

Messages will be transmitted in the order of their reception; no precedence will be allowed except for special despatches on Government service, the arrest of criminals, and cases of pressing emergency.

Messages must be written with ink clearly and legibly, bearing the proper date and address, and the genuine signature of the sender. The full and correct address to be given. Figures not to be used.

Messages will be delivered free of charge within one mile of the office; over that distance cab or omnibus fare will be charged when incurred. When messages are delivered to ships away from the wharf, boat hire will be charged extra.

Soldiers' and Sailors' Letters.—Letters not exceeding half an ounce to and from non-commissioned officers, private soldiers, seamen, or marines in her Majesty's service, one penny.

Registered Letters must bear stamps to the value of sixpence as the registration fee, in addition to the ordinary postage. Unregistered letters containing coin are registered by the Postmaster before transmission, the fee being charged upon delivery. The registering office is open from 10 a.m. till 4 p.m., except on English mail days, at Hobart, when it is closed at 3 p.m.

Late Letters for inland mails are charged a uniform fee of 2d. each. Late ship letters pay 2d. extra at country post offices, and 3d. extra at the Hobart and Launceston offices. This regulation applies also to loose letters sent to and from Victoria or New South Wales in the ship's box or bag, the deficiency in default being charged at the destination of such letters. Late newspapers, 1d. each. On English mail days at Hobart and Launceston the late fee for ship letters is 6d. each.

Savings Bank or Building Societies Packets.—Money or deposit books or documents referring thereto may be forwarded to or from Savings Banks and Building Societies in parcels not exceeding 4 ozs. in weight, at a charge of one penny only for each packet, if bearing the endorsement "Savings Bank (or Building Society, as the case may be) packet only," and the signature of the sender. Postmasters are bound to register these packets without fee.

Ship and Inland Packets must be in covers open at the ends or sides, and parcels of seed or samples of merchandize in bags or papers tied so as to be easily loosened and re-fastened. They must bear on the outside a statement of their contents, and the name and address of the sender; and must not contain any letter or epistolary communication. Packets exceeding 16 ounces in weight or of inconvenient form or size may be refused; and the transmission of any exceeding eight ounces may be delayed for any time not longer than a week, unless for England. Packets are allowed to contain any of the following articles:—Affidavits, almanacs, books printed or plain, catalogues, conveyances, deeds, engravings, judgments bona fide intended for registration according to law, letters of attorney, magazines, maps, music, music paper, notes, cheques, orders or pass books sent by any or to any bank or banker, paintings, pamphlets, patterns or samples of merchandise, periodical publications, photographs, placards, plans, policies of assurance, prices current, printed circulars, printed papers of every description, proceedings of any court of justice, reviews, seeds, share scrip, specifications, wills, writing paper, writs. NOTE—Samples or pattern packets must not contain any article having a value apart from its use as such. Any article of dress is not deemed a sample.

All Postages must be prepaid in Tasmanian postage stamps. Inland unstamped letters are sent on, and charged on delivery with double the amount due. Unstamped letters and packages for the United Kingdom are sent on, and charged on delivery with deficient postage and a fine of 6d. Unstamped letters and packages for the Australias and New Zealand are detained, and returned to the sender within seven days, if the postage still remains unpaid. When letters and packets for these countries are insufficiently stamped, but bearing a single rate of postage, they are forwarded, but are charged on delivery with the deficiency, together with a fine of a single rate. Stamps must be affixed above the address, or the letter may be treated as unstamped.

Exemptions from Postage.—Letters and packets to or from members of Parliament during session. Petitions and addresses to Governor; demands, remittances (which also are registered free of charge), and receipts on account of rural police and road rates; statistical information to Government Statistician; maps or plans to or from Surveyor-General; official letters to or from Inspectors under Scab Act; official returns of births, marriages, and deaths; depositions to or from Crown Prosecutor; printed forms to or from Government Printer; in each case the cover being duly endorsed and signed by sender. Letters on public service only franked by the Governor or a member of Parliament, or Mayor or Warden of a municipality, or by an officer of the Government authorised to frank official letters. Prepaid telegrams franked by an officer of the Telegraph Department.

Newspapers must not bear any mark or contain any writing beyond the address, under a penalty not exceeding £10.

Mails for Europe.—Mails are forwarded every two weeks by overland route via Colombo and Suez, and every two weeks by Orient line of steamers via Suez and Plymouth. Mails are also made up and sent every four weeks to Sydney in time to catch Californian mail steamer. Mails are also sent via Torres Straits.

Intercolonial Mails.—Mails for neighbouring colonies are forwarded by every steamer leaving for Melbourne, Sydney or New Zealand. Ship mails via Launceston and Melbourne (except on English mail days as above) close at Hobart 5 p.m., for Victoria only, 8 p.m. Letters, &c., for New South Wales or South Australia intended to go overland from Melbourne, must be marked "Per overland mail via Melbourne."

Private Boxes may be secured at an annual charge of 21s.; ship mail notices supplied for a yearly sum of 20s.

ROADS.

There are 4576 miles of roads maintained throughout the island, of which 4176 miles are under the control of 86 local road trusts. The cost of maintaining the latter during 1884 was £30 903, the main roads were maintained at a cost of £18,158 2s. 11d.

SHIPPING.

The total number of registered vessels belonging to Tasmania on December 31, 1884 was as follows: 175 sailing vessels of 13,148 tons, and 27 steamers of 5,136 tons; total tonnage, 18,284. In the year 1884, 576 vessels of the aggregate tonnage of 304,574, with crews 14,668 entered at the Custom House, and 664 vessels of 309,624, with crews of 14,836 cleared outwards. The 7 vessels engaged in the whaling trade were of the aggregate tonnage of 2,014 tons, and employ 168 men. The produce of the whale fisheries in 1883 brought into port was 267 tons of sperm oil, valued at £14,685. Of late years this industry has greatly declined owing to the utilization of other oils and the uncertainty of the occupation. The Tasmanian Steam Navigation Company possess several powerful steamers. Among their fleet are the Corinna, Commander H. C. White, gross tonnage, 1280; Flora, Commander Henry Bennison, gross tonnage, 1273; Pateena, Commander Herbert Sams, gross tonnage, 1212; Flinders, Commander Adam Drysdale, gross tonnage, 984; S. Cross, Commander Thos. Capurn, gross tonnage, 780; Mangana, Commander J. P. Sharpe, gross tonnage, 752; Moreton, Commander W. A. Pearce, gross tonnage, 581; and the distances run by their steamers are, Hobart to Cape Pillar, 40 miles, Hobart to St. Patrick's Head 140 miles, Hobart to Cape Barron 212 miles, Hobart to Gabo Island 394 miles, Hobart to Twofold Bay 426 miles, Hobart to Cape St. George 550 miles, Hobart to Sydney Heads 634 miles, Hobart to Newcastle Heads 695 miles, Hobart to Swan Island 200 miles, Hobart to Cape Schanck 398 miles, Hobart to Port Phillip Heads 416 miles, Hobart to Melbourne Wharf 457 miles. Launceston to Low Head 40 miles, Launceston to Kent's Group 138 miles, Launceston to Gabo Island 306 miles, Launceston to Twofold Bay 338 miles, Launceston to Cape St. George 462 miles, Launceston to Sydney Heads 546 miles, Launceston to Newcastle Heads 607 miles, Launceston to Cape Schanck 218 miles, Launceston to Port Phillip Heads 236 miles, Launceston to Melbourne Wharf 277 miles. (Nautical mileage.) They maintain fortnightly communication between Hobart, Sydney, and Launceston, and at shorter intervals between Hobart and Melbourne; between Launceston and Melbourne they have a biweekly service. The Union Steamship Company's steamers leave also at regular intervals for Melbourne and New Zealand Ports. A direct line of monthly steamers from London to Hobart is now running.

LATEST STATISTICS

(To end of November, 1886).

By R. M. JOHNSON, ESQ., GOVERNMENT STATISTICIAN.

Estimated population. 133,791; births, 4,637; deaths, 2,036; marriages, 1,054; excess of immigration over emigration 649. Public Revenue £571,379; land sales 59,972 acres and amount realized £86,944; general expenditure £585,767; loans expenditure £465,488; Public debt £3,357,000. Imports value £1,757,486; exports value £1,313,693. Wool exports 5,744,142 lbs., valued at £260,480. (It is estimated that in addition to this 2,642,159 lb., or 31 per cent. of the year's produce was held back and shipped during January and February, 1886.) Gold exported for the year amounted to 37,489ozs., valued at £141,319, and the tin exported 4,242 tons, valued at £357,587. The agricultural statistics give the following totals of acres under cultivation and yield:—Wheat, 30,266 acres, 524,353 bushels; oats, 29,247 acres, 784,325 bushels; barley 6,833 acres, 176,466 bushels; other cereals, 7,774 acres, 171,600 bushels; potatoes, 11,073 acres 53,521 tons; hay of all kinds, 41,693 acres, 51 872 tons; green forage, 1,303 acres; other tillage, 16,572 acres; land in cultivation, 417,777 acres. Of live stock the returns show 28,610 horses; 138,642 cattle; 1,648,627 sheep, and 67,395 pigs.

MANUFACTORIES AND INDUSTRIES.

The climate of Tasmania is especially adapted to malting and brewing, and also to the growth of hops and fruit. The Tasmanian brewer ale is that which is chiefly drunk in the colony, and an export trade is carried on in it with New South Wales and Victoria. Jam making is extensively carried on, 288 persons were engaged in its manufacture in 1883, since then however an increased trade has been done in exportation of fruit while there has been less actual manufacture of jam, this is greatly owing to the heavy duty charged on the manufactured article as compared with the cost of exporting the fruit in its natural state to be manufactured in the other colonies. There are thirteen breweries, 24 tanneries, 5 soap and candle manufactories, 10 jam manufactories, 54 saw mills, 37 agricultural implement makers, 5 brass foundries, 15 coach building factories, 71 fellmongeries, 61 flour mills, 3 tin smelting works, and there are also now three manufactories of cloth, tweed, blankets, &c., from Tasmanian wool; the articles manufactured are of excellent quality. The manufactories large and small are estimated at 3489. An effort is being made on a large scale to establish sericulture, a proposal having been accepted to lease Maria Island from the government for this purpose and the culture of the vine.

VOLUNTEER FORCE.

The total number on the rolls in all its branches of the service number 1016. The permanent staff comprises a commandant and other officers with artillery and infantry instructors. Proposals for a permanent force have been under consideration and partly decided on, but have since been abandoned. The defences consist of four batteries on the river Derwent and a small battery on the Tamar. Steps are being taken to complete other batteries as recommended by Sir W. Jervois and Major-General Scratchley and to provide additional means of defence for Hobart and Launceston, Parliament in 1885 voted £17,350 for defence works of which £6650 was set apart for the completion of existing batteries and the remainder for armament for batteries and a torpedo boat. Two 8in. and two 80 pounder Armstrong guns have been mounted on the Kangaroo Bluff battery which is now finished. The fort is pentagonal in shape and surrounded by a wide ditch. During 1884 the following war material was added to the colonial armament:—Two 40 pounder B.L.R. field guns, one 7 pounder M.L.R. jointed gun with carriages, limbers, stoves, and fittings. During 1885 a bill was before Parliament "to make better provision for the defence of the colony of Tasmania." One of the objects of the bill was to give the Crown power to compulsorily increase the number of the force to the proper strength should there not be sufficient volunteers.

SUBDIVISIONS.

For purposes of record in the Department of Lands, the colony is divided into counties which are again divided into parishes. There are eighteen counties, viz.:—

ARTUR, S.W., with its fine harbour Port Davey.

BUCKINGHAM, S.—Chief towns, Hobart, New Norfolk, Bridgewater, Kingston, and Glenorchy.

CORNWALL, N.E.—Chief towns, Launceston, Evandale, Avoca, Falmouth, St. Helens, and Fingal.

CUMBERLAND, midland.—Chief town, Ouse.

DEVON, N.—Chief towns, Torquay, Latrobe, Deloraine, York, and Ulverstone.

DORSET, N.E.—Chief towns, Georgetown, Lefroy, Lyndhurst, Ringarooma, and Bridport.

FRANKLIN, S.W.—No towns of any importance.

GLAMORGAN, E.—Chief towns, Seymour, Swansea, and Bicheno.

KENT, S.—Chief towns, Franklin, Folkestone, Hithe, and Bathurst.

LINCOLN, midland.—No towns.

MONMOUTH, S.—Chief towns, Bothwell, Pontville, Kempton (Green Ponds) Richmond, and Hamilton.

MONTAGU, S.W.—Chief town, Macquarie Harbour.

MONTGOMERY, S.W.—No towns.

PEMBROKE, S.E.—Chief towns, Buckland, Sorell, and Triabunna.

RUSSELL, W.—Containing Mount Bischoff with its tin stores and the gold fields of Preman River and Meredith Ranges.

SOMERSET, midland.—Chief towns, Ross, Tunbridge, Campbelltown, and Oatlands.

WELLINGTON, N.W.—Chief towns, Stanley and Wynyard.

WESTMORELAND, midland.—Longford, Perth, Chudleigh, and Westbury.

For the purpose of electing representatives to Parliament the colony is divided into electoral districts, viz., thirteen for the Legislative County and thirty-two for the House of Assembly. It is further divided into road districts to manage internal communication and municipalities for the purpose of self-local Governments. There are nineteen rural municipalities, each with its warden and sufficient police exclusive of Hobart and Launceston, viz., Bothwell, Brighton, Campbelltown, Clarence, Deloraine, Evandale, Fingal, Glamorgan, Glenorchy, Green Ponds, Hamilton, Longford, New Norfolk, Oatlands, Richmond, Ross, Sorell, Spring Bay, and Westbury, and thirteen police districts, viz., Carnarvon, Emu Bay, Franklin, Georgetown, Hobart, Kingborough, Port Sorell, Portland, Ringarooma, Russell, South Longford, Selby, and Macquarie.

MACHINERY ACT, TASMANIA, 1884.

“Machinery” means and includes every shaft, whether upright, oblique, or horizontal, and every drum, wheel, strap, band, or pulley by which the motion of the first motive power is communicated to any machinery, and every machine, gearing, contrivance, or appliance worked by steam or water-power, or by hand, or in any other manner, of such kind as by this Act are declared to be, or may be hereafter declared to be, subject to the provisions hereof:

“Boiler,” “Steam-boiler,” respectively, mean and include any boiler or vessel in which or by means of which steam is generated or used for the purpose of working any machinery as such term is hereinbefore defined:

Upon the commencement of this Act any person who may be the owner of any machinery declared to be subject to the provisions of this Act shall, within one month thereafter, send to the Inspector a written notice stating the name of such owner, the place or town where such machinery is erected, kept, or is intended to be used, the nature and kind of machinery, the nature and amount of the motive power; and in default of his so doing, every such person shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding Ten pounds.

Whenever any machinery shall become subject to the provisions of this Act as is hereinbefore provided, the owner thereof shall, within One month from the date of the Proclamation rendering such machinery subject to this Act, give notice to the Members allowed to travel free all over the world.

Inspector in like manner as hereinbefore provided, and in default thereof shall be liable to the like penalty thereby imposed.

Whenever the owner of any boiler shall have effected any repairs to any boiler, or shall have added to or taken away from any boiler any fittings or appliances of any kind whatsoever, or in any manner altered the construction thereof, he shall forthwith give notice thereof to the Inspector; and if any person shall fail to comply with the provisions of this Section he shall be liable to a penalty of not less than Five Pounds nor more than Twenty Pounds: Provided that this Section shall not extend to cases where repairs have been effected in accordance with a notice to effect repairs given by the Inspector under the powers hereinbefore contained.

Whenever any person shall sell or absolutely dispose of any boiler or machinery to any person, the seller shall forthwith give notice to the Inspector, stating the name, occupation, and abode of the person to whom such sale or disposition shall have been made; and whenever any such boiler or machinery shall be let to hire, or for a certain term, or to be returned to the owner, a similar notice shall in every such case be given to the Inspector by the lessor or owner of such machinery in manner aforesaid.

In either of the cases hereinbefore mentioned if default shall be made in giving any such notice, the person offending shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding Ten Pounds.

Whenever loss of life or serious bodily injury to any person by reason of the explosion of any boiler, or by reason of any accident caused by any machinery, shall have happened in any building, place, or premises in which or whereon there shall be any steam boiler or machinery of any kind (whether subject to the provisions of this Act or not), the owner of such boiler or machinery shall within Twenty-four hours thereafter send notice in writing under his hand to the Inspector where such accident may have happened, specifying in such notice the cause of such accident, and shall cause such notice to be delivered at the office or usual place of residence of such Inspector.

Every owner who neglects to send or deliver such notice as aforesaid shall be liable to a penalty of not less than Ten Pounds and not exceeding Twenty Pounds.

All offences against this Act shall be heard and determined, and all penalties shall be recovered, by and before any Two Justices of the Peace, in the mode prescribed by The Magistrates Summary Procedure Act. And every person who deems himself aggrieved by any penalty imposed upon him under this Act may appeal therefrom in the mode prescribed by The Appeals Regulation Act.

There shall be paid to the Inspector on making any inspection of machinery or of any boiler, and before grant of any Certificate as hereinafter provided, the fees prescribed in the Schedule (5): Provided always that the Governor shall have power from time to time to diminish the amount of such fees as he shall think fit by notice published in the Hobart Gazette.

All boilers shall be inspected at least once in every year, or oftener as occasion shall require: Provided that the fee for inspection of a boiler shall be payable in respect of such annual inspection, and not oftener, for the same boiler.

Whenever any machinery shall have been once inspected under this Act, and a Certificate of such inspection shall have been given as hereinafter provided, no further fee shall be payable for any subsequent inspection of the same machinery.

In making any such inspection as aforesaid, an Inspector may call to his aid any constable or any person he may think competent to assist therein, and he may require the owner or person in charge of any such machinery to explain the working thereof, and may examine such owner or person as to the compliance with this Act in any particulars.

If any person shall wilfully impede any such Inspector in the execution of any part of his duty under this Act, or if any owner or person in charge of any such machinery as last aforesaid shall refuse to give such explanation or information as aforesaid, every such person, and all persons aiding or assisting therein, shall, for every such offence, be liable to a penalty of not less than Five Pounds nor more than Twenty Pounds.

No child shall be employed working or assisting to work at or with any machinery; and no such machinery, worked or propelled by steam power, shall at any time be left in charge or control of any person unless he is a male of at least Eighteen years of age.

In case of a breach of any of the provisions of this Section, the owner of any such machinery shall be liable to a penalty of not less than Five Pounds nor more than Twenty Pounds.

No young person under the age of Fifteen years shall be allowed to clean any part of the gearing of any machinery while the same is in motion; and no such person shall be allowed to work between the fixed and traversing part of any self-acting machine while the latter is in motion by the action of the steam-engine, water-wheel, or other mechanical power.

In the case of a breach of any of the provisions of this Section, the owner of any such machinery, or of any such machine, shall be liable to a penalty of not less than Five Pounds nor more than Twenty Pounds.

If upon any inspection it shall appear to the Inspector that any boiler is unsafe, or that it would be dangerous to life or property if such boiler were to continue to be used in its then state, it shall be lawful for such Inspector to give the owner of such boiler a notice in writing, or partly in writing and partly in print, in the form or to the effect set forth in the Schedule (4), and such notice may either require such owner—

To wholly desist from working or using the boiler until certain repairs or alterations to be stated in the notice shall have been effected: or,

To partially desist from working or using such boiler except at a minimum pressure to be stated in such notice, until any repairs or alterations to be mentioned in such notice shall have been effected.

And if any person to or upon whom any such notice shall have been delivered or served as hereinafter provided shall for a period of Forty-eight hours thereafter fail either wholly or partially to desist from working such boiler according to the exigency of such notice, such person shall be liable to a penalty of not less than Twenty Pounds nor more than One hundred Pounds.

No person shall be liable to the provisions of this Act as an owner of machinery or a boiler unless such machinery or boiler shall be under his immediate power or control; nor shall any mortgagee of any machinery or boiler be liable as hereinbefore mentioned unless he shall be in actual possession thereof, or have the same under his immediate power or control. And for the purposes of this Section, the words "immediate power or control" shall mean where any machinery or a boiler is worked or used by the owner of such machinery personally, or his agents, servants, or others, under his orders or directions and for his benefit or profit. But nothing herein contained shall exempt any corporate body from any liability under this Act by reason only that any such machinery or boiler is under the control of any directors, secretary, manager, or other person or person whomsoever elected or employed by such corporate body for the benefit of or on behalf of such body.

Whenever any notice, summons, or other process is required to be served upon any owner under the provisions thereof, service on the manager, foreman, conductor, or agent of such owner shall be good and lawful service.

Whenever the Inspector shall have inspected any boiler or machinery, and shall be satisfied, in the case of a boiler, that the same is in good repair and may be safely used for the purpose for which it is then used, and, in the case of any other machinery, that the same is securely fenced and guarded, he shall give to the owner thereof a Certificate in the form or to the effect in the Schedule (6), and the owner shall, after receiving such Certificate, cause to be affixed on some conspicuous part of such boiler or machinery, or on such part thereof as may be approved by the Inspector, a metal plate bearing the words in legible characters, "Certified under 'The Inspection of Machinery Act, 1884,'" and if any person shall cause such plate to be affixed without having obtained such Certificate as aforesaid, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding Ten pounds.

Inspection of boilers may be made at any time in the day time at all reasonable hours, and so as not unnecessarily to impede the working or use of any boiler, unless the Inspector shall see fit to exercise the powers hereinafter conferred upon him.

Every Inspector is hereby empowered to enter into any building, place, or premises wherein there may be placed or erected any machinery, whether the same may be declared to be subject to the provisions of this Act or not, or into or upon any place or premises where such machinery may be in use or working or may be kept, and such entry may be made at any time either by day or by night, and whether such machinery is in operation or working or not, and then and there to inspect and examine such machinery, and the appliances connected therewith or belonging thereto, in order that it may be ascertained whether the provisions of this Act have been complied with.

APPLICATION OF ACT TO MACHINERY OF STEAM VESSELS.

The said Surveyor and Inspector shall execute their duties under the direction of the Board; and in the execution of such duties it shall be lawful for them to go on board any such steamship as aforesaid at all reasonable times and to inspect the same or any part thereof or any of the machinery, boats, equipments, or articles on board thereof to which the provisions of this Part of this Act or any of the Regulations to be made under this Act apply, not necessarily detaining or delaying the ship from proceeding on any voyage. And any person who hinders any such Surveyor or Inspector from going on board any such steamship, or otherwise impedes him in the execution of his duty under this Act, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding Ten Pounds.

FEEES ON INSPECTION OF BOILERS.

For every boiler working up to 10-horse power	One pound.
For every boiler working over 10-horse power	Three pounds.

❖ TOWNS ❖ IN ❖ TASMANIA. ❖

—o—

N.B.—The population given for these towns is taken from the Census of 1881.

The principal towns in the Colony of Tasmania are:—

HOBART, picturesquely situated at the foot of Mount Wellington (which towers 4166 feet above the North West end of the city) on the river Derwent about 12 miles from its mouth, in lat. 42 deg. 53 min. 32 sec. S., long. 147 deg. 21 min. 20 sec., E. Till Jan. 1st., 1881, it was known as Hobart Town, but on that day an Act of Parliament came into force altering the name to Hobart. The harbour is easy of access, well sheltered from winds, with sufficient depth of water and capacity for almost any number of vessels of the largest tonnage; there is also ample wharf and dock accommodation for the loading, discharge, and repair of ships. The city proper forms nearly a square, and is built on a succession of hills. In area it covers within its boundaries about 1,270 acres, and has a population of 28,648 persons, inhabiting about 5,400 houses, the annual value being assessed at £160,648. The streets, whose aggregate length is about 36 miles, are wide, well laid out, and intersect each other at right angles, the principal being Elizabeth, Liverpool, Collins, Macquarie and Murray Streets. Most of the streets were named by Governor Macquarie.

There are numerous public buildings of which Government House (a handsome castellated palatial pile of white freestone, on the banks of the Derwent,) and the Government Offices, the Houses of Parliament (with library of about 900 vols., and specification of patents from the year 1600) the Town Hall, Post Office, the Museum in Macquarie-street, the Freemason's Hall in Murray-street, the Banks and Insurance Offices may be instanced as the largest. Churches and Chapels are very numerous, numbering in all thirty-one, exclusive of the two Cathedrals. Among the principal of these are St. David's Cathedral (Episcopal) whose original foundation was laid on Feb. 19th 1817; in the church-yard lies Col. Collins, the first Governor (to whose memory a monument was erected by Sir John Franklin in 1813), and not far from him Sir Eardley Wilmot; Trinity Church with a peal of eight bells in Warwick-street; St. George's, Battery Point; St. Mary's, R. C. Cathedral, Harrington-street, a beautiful and imposing structure which has been rebuilt (re-opened Jan. 24th 1881) to which a large and handsome convent of the Presentation Order is attached, a R. C. Church dedicated to the Sacred Heart, opened in January, 1880. St. Andrew's Church of Scotland, the Congregational Memorial Church, with a fine organ, and the Centenary Church (Wesleyan) in Melville-street, which possesses a fine organ. The Society of Friends have a handsome Meeting House in Murray-street, with a library of books treating on the principles and practices of the Friends. The Jew's Synagogue is in Argyle-street. Attached to the Claims paid immediately on proof of death & title.

Town Hall is a Public Library, well supplied with works in nearly every department of literature, comprising 9,966 vols.; there is also a reading-room with all the papers of the day in it. There is one Theatre, the Royal, in Campbell-street; the Town Hall in Macquarie-street, the Freemason's Hall, Tasmanian Temperance Alliance Rooms, Memorial Hall, People's Hall, Exhibition Buildings (in Lower Macquarie-street) and the Oddfellow's Hall are frequently used for concerts and similar purposes. There are numerous private schools, seven public schools, and three ragged schools in the city. At the head of the private schools stands Christ's College, carried on in the High School Buildings in Government Domain; Hutchins School (so named in memory of its founder, Archdeacon Hutchins, who died in June, 1841); Macquarie-street and the City and Metropolitan Schools also in Macquarie-street, and the Scotch College in Elizabeth-street. Among the Charitable Institutions supported principally by private donations are the Benevolent Society, a Dorcas Society, Girl's Industrial School, Boy's Home, and the St. Joseph's Orphanage.

The public charitable Institutions are numerous and comprise a general Hospital with 17 wards and 133 beds; the New Town pauper establishment, averaging about 650 inmates (the Brickfield's pauper establishment was abolished in 1882, and the inmates transferred to the New Town establishment. At the Cascades about two miles from the city are situated the hospital for the insane, having 31 wards and about 100 beds, and the hospital for contagious diseases which has 40 beds. The principal hotels are Hadley's Orient, The Ship, Carlton Club, Curries, Criterion, Derwent, Rocky and Exchange Hotels; there are numerous other good hotels, and also many first class boarding-houses, where the charges range from 21s. to 63s. per week. There is regular steam communication between Melbourne and Sydney, by the vessels of the Tasmanian Steam Navigation Co., the Union Steamers also call on their way to and from New Zealand. Melbourne (443 miles N.W.) can be reached about twice a week via Launceston. The main line of railway connects Hobart with Launceston. There are three trains daily each way. Coaches leave regularly for the adjacent townships and villages. Hobart on account of its invigorating climate is largely visited during the summer season by visitors from Melbourne, Adelaide, and Sydney, and no more pleasant resort could be found. The city is delightfully situated, and from many points commanding views of land and sea are to be had. From Mount Nelson the look-out station, the ascent of which is not a laborious one, one of the finest marine views may be obtained, while from Mount Wellington a still more comprehensive land and seascape repays the toiler to the summit. The suburbs of Hobart comprise New Town, Queenborough (Sandy Bay), Wellington, Glenorchy, Risdon and Bellerive (Kangaroo Point). There is one brewery owned by the Cascade Brewery Company, Limited. There are also five flour mills, six jam manufactories, numerous tanneries, a woollen factory, and tin smelting and reducing works with appliances capable of treating about 60 tons per week.

There are three first-class patent slips available for repairs to vessels of a considerable size. In September, 1883, the Right Rev. Dr. Sandford succeeded Dr. Bromby in the Bishopric of the Church of England. The Right Rev. Dr. Murray is the Bishop of the Church of Rome. The R. C. Episcopal Palace is a large and commodious building adjoining the Cathedral in Harrington-street and commanding a fine view. The city is under municipal government (incorporated December 22nd, 1857) the corporation consisting of a Mayor and nine aldermen. It is well lighted with gas and plentifully supplied with water. The water supply is derived from springs in Mount Wellington and is conserved in a storage reservoir on the Sandy Bay rivulet, about one mile from the town boundary, which is capable of containing forty millions of gallons. An additional storage reservoir as a supplementary one has been formed capable of holding sixty millions of gallons. It is estimated that the two reservoirs contain about two months' supply. There are three markets, the old market between the new wharf and Franklin Wharf, the new market in Macquarie-street, and the wholesale fish market in Dunn-street. Under the auspices of the Hobart Bathing Society spacious baths with every private accommodation for ladies and gentlemen have been erected in the Queen's Domain within five minutes' walk of the city. There is also near the same spot sheds for convenience of the members of the Hobart and Mercantile Rowing Clubs. The Derwent is celebrated for its annual regatta which attracts visitors from all the colonies, and is the grand holiday of Hobart. The Queen's Domain, a spacious reserve of 1000 acres serves as a most efficient lung for the city. The new cricket ground is here provided with pavilion and every requisite for the comfort of members and visitors. The Royal Society's Gardens close to Government House covering an area of about 25 acres are much frequented. At the lower end of the town stands a bronze statue to the memory of Sir John Franklin, formerly Governor of Tasmania, around which is a pleasant garden known as Franklin Square, formerly the site of the old Government House, this garden is provided with seats placed under shady trees. A similar recreation ground has been laid out near the barracks. In the vicinity of the town are several cemeteries; the Public Cemetery, Cornelian Bay, the Queenborough Cemetery at Sandy Bay, the Upper Davey-street Cemetery on the Huon road, the Baptist (St. John's Episcopal), and Congregational Burial Ground, Newtown and the burial ground of the Society of Friends. The Press is represented by the Mercury and the Tasmanian News published daily; Tasmanian Mail and Critic published weekly; Literary Intelligencer, Church News, Peoples Friend, Catholic Standard, and Register Monthly.

LAUNCESTON, the second town in Tasmania and the principal one in the North, is situated on the Tamar about forty miles from its mouth at the conflux of the North and South Esk rivers. It lies in a valley enclosed by hills known as the Windmill and Cataract Hills, and derives its name from Launceston in Cornwall, England. It is distant 120 miles by road and 133 by rail from Hobart with which there is daily railway communication fares 30s. and 20s. Three trains run each way daily. The railway station is in Cimitiere-street. Steamers run to Melbourne, 267 miles N.W. twice a week, and to the North West and North East coasts weekly and to Sydney once a fortnight. There is coach communication with Evandale, Lymington, Jeffroy, Beaconsfield, Scottsdale, and other townships and the Launceston and Western railway is now open to Formby. The estimated population is 71,715. The houses number 3100. Extent of roads and streets, 45 miles; area of town, 3346 acres. The town is well laid out, is lighted with gas, and has a good water supply derived from St. Patrick's River fifteen miles east of Launceston, the streets are of ample width with numerous fine public buildings, as well as substantial shops, stores, banks, private residences, and public halls, &c. The principal ecclesiastical edifices are St. John's, Trinity, and St. Paul's (Episcopalian), St. Andrew's, and Chalmers (Presbyterian), the Wesleyan Church in Paterson-street, the R. C. Church of the Apostles, the Congregational Church in Princes Square, and the new Baptist Tabernacle in Cimitiere-street. The general hospital has accommodation for eighty patients. The Invalid Depot has an average of 148 patients. The Mechanics' Institute is well patronized, and has a library of 10,736 volumes. The Town Hall is an elegant and spacious building. The Government buildings in St. John-street are also above the average order. There are a Grammar School (Church of England), Wesleyan Ladies' College, numerous private schools, two Public schools under the Board of Education, and a convent of the Presentation Order with day school attached. The banks are the Commercial, National, Van Diemen's Land, Union, and Bank of Australasia. There are also the Launceston Savings Bank and the Post Office Savings Bank, a new post and telegraph office to cost £15,000 is in course of erection, also a Custom House to cost £9,619. The newspapers published in Launceston are the Launceston Examiner and the Telegraph daily, and the Tasmanian weekly. There are several first-class hotels and a handsome coffee palace. The market is in Lower Charles-street. A handsome Fire Brigade station with a tower is in Brisbane-street. The town was incorporated November 1st, 1858, and is governed by a Mayor and eight aldermen. The Town Park extending over an area of nine acres is much frequented. The Garden Crescent has been permanently improved as a recreation ground. The racecourse is at Mowbray, about two miles from the city. The land under cultivation in the district is chiefly for wheat, oats, peas, and potatoes. Cora Linn, about four miles from the town, is much visited for its romantic scenery, being a deep gorge through which the North Esk rushes. Punch Bowl and the Cataract are also favourite places of resort.

ANTILL PONDS, named after Major Antill, the 48th Reg., is a post town and telegraph station in the County of Somerset, electoral and municipal district of Oatlands, 68 miles north of Hobart, and 52 south of Launceston. It is on the main coach road and alongside the Main Line Railway, in which it has a station. Fares, 15s 3d and 10s 3d. There is one hotel, the Halfway House, and a half-time school.

APSLEY, a small township in the County of Monmouth, is in the electorate of Cumberland and municipality of Bothwell, distant 9 miles from Bothwell, and 36 N.W. of Hobart, with which there is a daily coach communication. It is on the River Jordan, and the road from Melton Mowbray, to Bothwell. There is good farming and agricultural land in the vicinity.

AVOCA, a township with money order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station, in the County of Cornwall, electorate and municipality of Fingal, 103 miles N.E. of Hobart and 52 S.E. from Launceston, and 18 miles S.W. from Fingal. The main coach roads Corners to St. Helens and Avoa to Swansea join here. There is daily communication by coach from Corner's railway station 16 miles. There is one place of worship, St. Thomas's Episcopalian Church, and a public school. Hotel, Foster's. Tin is widely distributed over this district, and several claims are in work. Much wool is grown in the district, and the export of wattle bark is large.

BAGDAD, a post town in the County of Monmouth, electorate of Brighton, and municipality of Greenponds, about 23 miles from Hobart. There is one hotel, the Swan, and a public school. The district is of a grazing and farming character. Kempton or Greenponds is five miles distant. Weekly carrier to and from Hobart.

BEACONSFIELD (so named by Governor Weld after the late Earl of Beaconsfield), formerly known as Brandy Creek, is a postal centre, with money order, telegraph, and saving's bank, and place of petty sessions in a new gold mining district in the County of Devon, police and electoral district of George Town. It owes its position to the discovery of quartz reefs in 1877 by Mr. William Dally. It is situated on the west bank of the River Tamar, at the foot of Cabbage Tree Hill, about a mile from the water's edge, and lies about 33 miles N.W. of Launceston, with which it is connected by a fair road, and 166 N. of Hobart. Steamers from and to George Town (10 miles) and Launceston call daily to embark and discharge passengers and cargo at Bowen's jetty (about 2 miles distant), which is now connected with Beaconsfield by tramway. There is also tri-weekly coach communication with Launceston. Fare, 6s. Population (census 1881): town, 455; mining locality, 1520. It is now estimated at about 2000, and it ranks as the third town of importance in the colony. In the township are four churches—Episcopal, Wesleyan Primitive Methodist, and Presbyterian, a public school several private schools, four hotels, post and money order office, police station, numerous stores, three public buildings, Alfred Hall, an Assembly Room, and Mining Exchange, a branch of the National Bank of Tasmania, and private houses and cottages numbering about 650. The district is justly regarded as one of the most important mining districts in the colony, and has been highly spoken of by Professor Ulrich and other authorities. The alluvial diggings at one time supported a large population, but the yield of gold from this source has greatly abated, but in the quartz there would appear to be comparatively unlimited resources. The Tasmanian Gold Mining Co. has proved itself to be one of the most productive in the Southern Hemisphere.

BELLERIVE (Kangaroo Point), a suburb of Hobart, two miles distant on the opposite side of the water, prettily situated on the E. bank of the Derwent. It is in the County of Monmouth and municipality and electoral district of the Clarence. Population, 270. It has a telegraph station, money order, and saving's bank, and is in the county of Monmouth, and electorate and municipality of Richmond. Agricultural and pastoral district. Gold was found here in the early part of 1882; the reef was worked for a few months and then abandoned.

CAMPBELLTOWN, an old-fashioned and very pretty township, on the slope of a hill, on the banks of the Elizabeth River, which flows through it, in the county of Somerset, electorate and municipal district of Campbelltown, distant 91 miles N. from Hobart, and 42 S.E. from Launceston. There is coach communication daily with Avoca, Fingal, St. Mary, Falmouth, and George's Bay, and the main line of railway can be availed of as there is a station here. Fares by rail from Hobart, 20s. 9d. and 13s. 9d. There are in the town a Mechanics' Institute, with reading room and library of 16,743 vols.; a hospital, four places of worship, Roman Catholic church, a fine Gothic building; the Church of England, St. Luke's, of brick; St. Andrew's, Scotch Church, and a Wesleyan Chapel in High-street; also a public school. Hotels—King's, the Caledonian, and the Criterion. Population, 948. The surrounding country is all very fertile, but at present is mainly utilised for sheep grazing purposes, several of the far-famed pure merino stud farms being in the district. Some fruit is also grown. The Midland Agricultural Association hold their annual meetings here in the Society's yards. The township has a money order, telegraph, and saving's bank station, and a branch of the Bank of Australia, for which a new building has lately been erected. Court of Petty Sessions is held regularly, also General Sessions. The great drawback to this township has hitherto been the want of water in the summer season, but a dam is now finished at the cost of £12,000, about twenty miles distant, forming a reservoir 1,200 acres in area, which will store a supply of water sufficient to keep the river running an ample stream throughout the year.

CARRICK, a township with saving's bank, money order office, and telegraph station in the rural municipality of Westbury, electorate of Norfolk Plains and county of Westmoreland, situated on the river Liffey. Population, 285. There is daily coach communication with Launceston, from which it is distant ten miles S.W., and 120 miles N. from Hobart. There are an Episcopal church (St. Andrew's), a public school, two inns, Carriek and Prince of Wales, and a Mechanics' Institute with a small library. The Entalby Bridge here was opened July 12, 1878. The Racing Club has its head quarters here, and the Raccourse is one of the best in Tasmania. Agricultural district.

CHUDLEIGH, a village with saving's bank, money order office, telegraph and railway stations; a public school near the Lobster River, in the county of Westmoreland, municipality and electoral district of Deloraine, and 218 miles S.W. of Launceston. It has a rich dairy and agricultural country round it. In the vicinity are some extensive caves, which are described as being extremely grand and beautiful. Population, 123.

in large quantities at no very great distance; tin is also found, and large parcels have been sent away to be smelted. Population, 299.

GLADSTONE, Mount Cameron, a gold-mining township, proclaimed in April, 1881, about sixty miles N.E. from Launceston. Several reefs have been discovered here, the most promising being known as the Royal Tasman. The yield however from them has not come up to anticipation. The town contains several substantial and commodious buildings: the Town Hall opened in March, 1883, being a prominent one. Population, 200. Census 1881, is now supposed to be doubled. It is in the county of Dorset, electorate of Georgetown, and police district of Ringarooma, and has a money order, telegraph, and saving's bank, and a Public school.

GLENORCHY, a railway and telegraph station and post-town, saving's bank, and money order office in the electorate and police district of the same name and county of Buckingham, five miles from Hobart N.W., on the left bank of the River Derwent. There are omnibuses and carts plying through the city throughout the day; fares, 9d. The town, or rather village, has been described as thoroughly English looking, with its surroundings of farms and homesteads. It contains English, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, and Wesleyan places of worship, and a Public school with attendance of 178 pupils. Grains, hops, and fruit are principally grown. There are also several manufactories, two hotels—Club and Hop-pole Inn. Population of municipality, 1539; 4419. The village is known as O'Brien's Bridge. The rural municipality was proclaimed October 4, 1864, and has an area of 24,000 acres. A Court of Petty and General Sessions held here. The metropolitan racecourse, known as the Elwick is here. It is picturesquely placed on the bank of the Derwent. It has a fine grand-stand of brick. It is now in railway communication with Hobart.

GLENORE, post-town about 29½ miles S.W. from Launceston, situated in the municipality and electorate of Westbury and the county of Westmoreland. It is a station on the L. and W. railway, fares, 4s. 3d. and 3s. 6d., and has a Public school and Wesleyan chapel.

HADSPEN, a small township on the South Esk River, eight miles S. from Launceston in the county of Cornwall and the electorate and police district of Cornwall. There are Episcopal and Wesleyan places of worship, and a Public school. It is on the road from Launceston to Deloraine, and the river is crossed by a bridge.

HAMILTON ON FORTH, a post-town and money-order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station in the county of Devon, electorate of West Devon and police district of Port Sorell, eight miles W. of Torquay and 85 N.W. from Launceston on the road to Circular Head. Situated on both sides of the river Forth about two miles from the sea coast and distanced from Hobart 218 miles. Owing to the large area of rich agricultural land surrounding it, it is steadily progressing; it possesses five places of worship, two hotels, a Town Hall, and library containing over 500 volumes, a Public school, Oddfellows' Hall, which is also a Masonic lodge, a boot factory, and several stores. The estuary of the Forth offers ample and excellent harbourage for moderate sized craft, vessels drawing 13ft. can lie there at any state of the tide without touching, and the improvement of the harbour by scouring the bar is being taken in hand. The Forth, upstream, is a favourite resort of the disciples of Izaak Walton, the herring abounding there. The beach between the Forth and Severn is a charming recreation ground, and offers great attraction to the collectors of shells and curios. The Forth is rich in social institutions; it has its Agricultural Association, Devon Agriculture Society, its Working Men's Club, a Rechabite tent, a cricket club, and a Dramatic Society.

HASTINGS, a post town and telegraphic station in the county Kent electorate and police district of Franklin, situated on an arm of the sea called the Narrows, 56 miles S.E. from Hobart. It has a Memorial Congregational church, a Public school, and a Good Templars' Hall; the surrounding country is hilly and densely wooded. An extensive saw mill is here giving employment to a large number of hands.

JERUSALEM, a money order and saving's bank township and telegraph station, about 17 miles from Richmond, 32 miles (39 by train) N. of Hobart, and 94 miles S. from Launceston. It is in the county of Monmouth, electorate and municipality of Richmond. It has a Public school, two places of worship, Episcopal and Roman Catholic, and two inns. A new Church of England, a substantial freestone structure built at a cost of £800 was opened March 13, 1884. The Roman Catholic church is said to be the most prominent and beautiful building in the town. Population, 194. It is a station on the main line; fares, 8s. 3d. and 5s. 9d. Coal seams are worked in the neighbourhood, and the coal is largely used by the railway.

KEMPTON, more generally known as Green Ponds, a township 29 miles N. of Hobart and 92 miles S. of Launceston in the county of Monmouth, electorate of Brighton and municipal district of Green Ponds, situated on the Green Pond's Rivulet. It has a money order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station. Population, 434; of district, 1280. Coaches run morning and evening to and from the railway station at Brighton, there is also communication with Hobart by carriers twice weekly and by carriers passing through from Bothwell. The public library has about 1250 volumes. Public school here and an assembly room, three places of worship, and four hotels. It is a place of Petty and Quarter Sessions.

KINGSTON, a postal, telegraph, saving's bank, and money order township on Brown's River in the county of Buckingham, electoral and police district of Kingborough, 10 miles S. of Hobart and 131 from Launceston. There is a Public school, police station, court house, and four places of worship. Petty and Quarter Sessions are held here. The district is a grazing and fruit-growing one. The mail coach leaves daily for Hobart. Population, 171; of district, 4157.

LATROBE, a post, telegraph, saving's bank, and money order town, in the county of Devon, electorate of East Devon, and police district of Port Sorell, near the mouth of the river Mersey, 7 miles S.E. of Torquay, 70 miles N.W. from Launceston, and 203 miles N.N.W. from Hobart. There are handsome buildings for the Commercial, Union, and Bank of Australia, and six hotels and a coffee palace; a public school, Episcopal, Roman Catholic, Wesleyan, and Congregational places of worship; a spacious court house, police office and public library. A Court of Petty Sessions is held here regularly. There is a newspaper here published bi-weekly, the Devon Herald, this is the only one in the island excepting Hobart and Launceston, which can lay claim to a local press. There is a railway station here, and a Turf Club has its meetings here. Population, 711.

LEFROY, so called in honor of the late Acting Governor, a mining township with telegraph station, saving's bank, and money order office, in the county of Dorset, electorate and police district of Georgetown, about 27 miles N.W. from Launceston, 159 N. of Hobart and 10 miles from Georgetown. It is situated on the east side of the river Tamar, on the Nine Mile Creek. A coach runs to and from Launceston daily, fare 8s., also to and from Georgetown. It was formerly known as Nine mile Springs, afterwards as Itchel. The discovery of several gold-bearing quartz reefs has brought the town into prominence. Several companies are now operating here, but the results have not come up to expectation. The New Native Youth yielded well for some time averaging 20z. to the ton, but after crashings were not so good. The New Cham Company's mine here is reported to be the richest gold mine yet found in the island and has yielded large returns. In the town are two places of worship, Episcopal, St. Andrew's, consecrated by Bishop Sandford, 1883, and Wesleyan; a public school, police station, four hotels, a temperance hotel, an Institute, with library of 400 vols., and several stores. Population 436. This goldfield was discovered by Mr. Samuel Richards, who has been awarded the discovery reward of £3,000. The yield is scattered and covers an area of about 1,000 acres.

LONGFORD, is situated on the Norfolk Plains (which name the district formerly bore) and the lake river at its junction with the South Esk, in the county of Westmoreland, police district of Longford, and electorate of Norfolk Plains, 113 miles north from Hobart, and 17½ miles south from Launceston, with which it is in direct railway communication by the Launceston and Western Railway; fares 3s. and 2s. 3d. A carrier goes to and from Launceston daily. It has a money order office, saving's bank office, and telegraph station, and Court of General and Petty Sessions is held regularly. The principal place of worship in the town is Christ Church, Episcopal Church, built of freestone, with a magnificent stained glass window. The Roman Catholics have a chapel, as have also the Wesleyans, Primitive Methodists and Baptists. Public school. The Commercial Bank has a branch here. The public library contains upwards of 790 vols. Population, 1,286, district 5,182. The rural municipality proclaimed January 27, 1862, has an area of 212,000 acres, with 115 miles of roads and streets. Agricultural operations are profitably carried on in the district, wheat and oats being largely grown, and also fruit. The district has been called the "Garden of Tasmania."

MOUNT BISCHOFF, (Waratah) a post town with government saving's bank, telegraph station and money order office, about 60 miles west, in a direct line from Launceston (142 postal) and 160 N.W. from Hobart, in the county of Russell, electorate of Wellington, and police district of Emu Bay. Owing to the extensive tin mines this town is now the fourth in the island. Mount Bischoff takes its name from Mr. James Bischoff, Chairman of the Van Diemen's Land Co. in 1828. Notwithstanding its prominent position it has as yet no exit coastways by any public road, its only means of egress till lately being by Van Diemen's Land Company's tramway. This has now been converted into a railway. It can be reached by the Deloraine Railway Station, or from Emu Bay (45 miles with which latter place it is connected by the Emu Bay and Mount Bischoff Railway, fares from Emu Bay 12s. 6d. and 7s. 6d. In the neighbourhood are the celebrated tin mines. Waratah, the township at the foot of the Mount is situated on both sides of the Waratah river, which is crossed by three bridges. It has five hotels, a Wesleyan Chapel, a public school, Mount Bischoff Provident Hospital, a branch of the National Bank of Tasmania, and a Mechanic's Institute, with library of 1,650 vols., and a large hall fitted with stage appointments. Court of Petty Sessions is held here. Since the formation of the Mount Bischoff Company to the early part of 1884, 18,500 tons of tin ore have been raised and £456,000 paid in dividends equal to £38 per share. The mine was discovered by Mr. James Smith, and in August, 1873, the Mount Bischoff was formed as a Mining Company with a capital of £60,000 in 12,000 shares. The tin is obtained by sluicing the face of the mountain. The ore is conveyed to the township of Waratah by a line of railway about one mile long, worked by a locomotive. The whole of the machinery for dressing the ore at the sheds is worked by water power, the river having a fall of nearly 100 ft. Much of the machinery is automatic. The Company employ nearly 300 hands. Much of the tin is smelted in Launceston, where the Company have six smelting furnaces. Beside the Mount Bischoff Co., there are several others at work. Population, 874; of the whole mining locality 1,252; it is now 2,000.

NEW NORFOLK is in the county of Buckingham, municipality and electoral roll of New Norfolk, and lies 21 miles N.W. of Hobart and 130 miles S. of Launceston on the right bank of the Derwent, at its highest navigable point. A bridge erected at a cost of £5,000 was opened in June, 1880, total length 600 feet, in fifteen spans of forty feet each, width of roadway, 18 feet. It is in railway connection with Hobart, by coach from the Bridgewater Station.

Captain Wise's steamer Monarch also plies up the river daily, calling at Old Beach and Bridgewater. The Monarch leaves for Hobart every morning and returns every evening, Sundays excepted, fare, 4s. There is a Church of England, a Roman Catholic Church, and a Wesleyan Chapel. The foundation stone for a new Catholic church was laid in March, 1885. There is also a branch of the Commercial Bank, a public school, a lunatic asylum having 122 rooms, with accommodation for 290 patients; during 1883 the average number of patients was 292, a public library with 3,500 vols., two respectable hotels, the Bush Hotel and the Star and Garter, the former having a fine garden sloping down to the river, and several smaller inns. It has a money order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station. A Court of Petty and General Sessions is held here regularly. Population, 1,036, of district, 3,644, now 4111. The Salmon Ponds are at Redlands, about six miles distant. Conveyances can be hired from the hotels. It is a great hop and fruit growing district, and the scenery, particularly along the river, is very pretty. The rural municipality proclaimed Feb. 13, 1863, has an area of 248,000 acres, the annual rateable value of the property being £15,435. This district was principally peopled in 1808 by settlers from Norfolk Island who were transferred thence under imperative orders from the Home Government.

PENGUIN, a seaport town with money order office, saving's bank and telegraph station on the creek of the same name, and the main road from Deloraine to Circular Head, in the county of Devon, electorate of West Devon and police district of Port Sorell. It is 210 miles N. from Hobart and 90 miles W. from Launceston. There are lodes containing silver and copper in the locality; these have been worked, but though the prospects were good the companies were compelled to discontinue work. Ironstone also abounds in the locality. Penguin has two hotels, a town hall, a public school, and several stores. The harbour is protected by a breakwater. The Penguin District possesses a considerable area of first-class agricultural land, and is being rapidly opened up by a large number of yeoman farmers. It boasts of an Agricultural Association, and an annual show of farm and dairy produce is held here.

PERTH, a village with money order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station, is in railway communication, 11 miles S. (by rail 14½) with Launceston on the L. and W. railway line; fares, 2s. 9d. and 2s. A carrier plies daily to and from Launceston. It is situated in the county of Cornwall, electoral district of Norfolk Plains, and municipality of Longford on the right bank of the South Esk river, which at this point is crossed by a fine stone bridge of eight arches. The places of worship are St. Andrew's Episcopal church and the Baptist chapel. Other prominent buildings are the Temperance Hall and the Public school. The Queen's Head is the principal hotel. Population, 478.

PONTVILLE, county of Monmouth, electorate and municipality of Brighton, is 17 miles N. of Hobart, and 11½ S. of Launceston on the main road between these places and the river Jordan. Population, 329. The communication with the capital is by the Main Line railway. There is a telegraph station, money order and saving's bank office, four places of worship, and a Public school. Three of the churches are built of white freestone from quarries in the neighbourhood. Hotels—the Epsom and Crown. Court of Petty and General Sessions is held here.

RICHMOND, a township in the county of Monmouth electorate and municipality of Richmond, pleasantly situated on the banks of the Coal river here spanned by a substantial stone bridge of 6 arches about 14 miles N.E. of Hobart and 136 from Launceston. A coach runs to Hobart daily, and carriers leave and arrive every day; the nearest railway station is at Campania, five miles distant. A conveyance meets the trains. The Bridge is the principal hotel. There are three places of worship, a Public school, and a library of 1000 volumes. It has a money order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station, and is a place of Petty and General Sessions. Population, 418; of district, 1729 (now 1951). A considerable breadth of land is under cultivation principally for the cereals and wheat crops. Anthracite coal is found on the west bank of the Coal river.

RINGAROOMA, a post-town, with money order office, savings bank, and telegraph station in the county of Dorset, and electorate of Georgetown, 193 miles from Hobart, and 69 miles N.E. from Launceston on the river at the mouth of the Ringarooma and Boobyalla rivers. During 1882 portions of the police districts of Portland and Selby were erected into a separate police district called Ringarooma. Tin in large quantities has been found here and is now systematically worked by several companies. Public school is here. It is a place of Quarter Sessions. Ringarooma may be considered as the most important of the north eastern tin fields, and although gold is but little sought after, it is known to exist in the locality. The stanniferous district is of large extent running the entire length of the river and into the neighbouring mountainous country which consists of the lowest quality of pastoral land overgrown with musk, blackwood, myrtle, laurel, and dogwood. The geographical formation is of basalt granite and sandy plains with quartz drift. This place may be reached by steamer from Launceston or by coach from the Corners railway station via Fingal to George's Bay, and thence by horse-track through a dense eucalyptus bush with several dangerous rivers only fordable at low water. In this district is the celebrated Kruska Brothers' Monie Claim consisting of one 80 acre section which has been worked by the proprietors, the Messrs. Kruska, for about six years, and has already yielded ore to the value of £80,000.

ROSS, a small but pleasant township in the County of Somerset, electorate of Campbelltown and municipality of Ross, 73 miles 78.3 by train N. of Hobart, and 48 S.E. from Launceston. Population, 353. It is on the Mac quarie River (which is spanned by a freestone bridge), in the centre of rich and fertile plains of considerable extent. The Main Line Railway has a station here. Fares from Hobart, 19s. and 12s. 9d. There are three trains daily passing through from Hobart to Launceston, and vice versa. There is an Episcopalian Church, said to be one of the handsomest country churches in the island, a Wesleyan and a Roman Catholic Church; also, at a distance of two miles from the township, a college the Horton, established in 1855, which, in 1881, was enlarged and improved. Captain Horton gave the site, and also a considerable sum towards the erection of the building. It stands in grounds of 20 acres upon the eastern slope of a projecting ridge commanding the vale of Muequarie. There is a public school, one hotel, a money order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station. It is a place of Petty and Quarter Sessions. Population, 353; of district, 950. Its building stone is celebrated for its quality and white color.

ST. HELENS (George's Bay), a watering place of summer resort, at the head of a landlocked harbour on the east coast, in the County of Cornwall, electoral district of Fingal, and police district of Portland, about 80 miles E. of Launceston. There is good accommodation for visitors and abundance of fishing, boating, and shooting. Anglican Church, public school, money order office, saving's bank, telegraph station, and branch of Commercial Bank. Hotels, Telegraph and Union. It is reached by coach from Corner's railway station. Petty and General Sessions are held here. Within a short distance are the tin mines. Population, 257. Much tin ore from the Blue Tier and Thomas Plains district is shipped here.

ST. LEONARDS, a suburb of Launceston, 3 miles distant, is a pretty village, with a money order, saving's bank, and telegraph office, in the County of Dorset, police and electoral district of Selby, on the North Fork River. A conveyance runs to and from the station on the Launceston and Western Railway. Railway fares, 9d. and 6d. The Anglican Church is a neat building, and there are other places of worship and a public school. About 3 miles from here is Corn Linn, remarkable for its romantic scenery.

ST. MARY'S, a township; money order, saving's bank, and telegraph station, in the county of Cornwall, electorate and municipality and district of Fingal, 135 miles N.E. of Hobart, 80 miles E. of Launceston, and 12 from Fingal, situated on St. Patrick's Creek. A railway is now opened between here and the Corners, with one communication each way daily. The inhabitants number about 200. An Episcopal Church and public school are here. Severe shocks of earthquake have been felt here. In the neighbourhood seams of coal of considerable thickness have been opened.

SORELL, or Pitlwater, as it was formerly called, is a town near the coast in the County of Pembroke, municipality and electoral district of Sorrell 15 miles N.E. from Hobart and 148 miles S. from Launceston. It has a money order office, saving's bank and telegraph station. There are in the town an Episcopal Church, Presbyterian and R. C. Chapel, a public school, and an institute, with a library containing about 1200 vols. There is coach communication twice a day with the city fare 2s.), via Kangaroo Point and the Sorrell causeway, a very extensive work, nearly three miles long, which cost £27,000, and was formally opened by Governor Du Cane in 1871. Hotels—Pembroke Inn and Gordon Highlander, and four others. Courts of Requests, Petty and General Sessions are held here. Population, 267; of district, 3327. Formerly Sorrell was considered the granary of the colony, and though the production of wheat has been reduced, the large bi-weekly stock sales, at which immense numbers of pigs are sold to the Southern butchers, as well as sheep and oxen, show that the large producing power of the district is not impaired. Large sums have lately been voted for public works in this district; new bridges have been thrown over the Iron Rivulet and the Carlton rivers, and roads extended in various directions.

STANLEY, or Circular Head, an important seaport town, port of entry and clearance, with money order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station in the county and electorate of Wellington and police district of Russell, on the north coast, about 141 miles N.W. from Launceston, and 278 N.W. of Hobart. It was laid out by the Van Diemen's Land Co., (to whom a considerable area of the land belongs), and is prettily situated on a flat lying E. of the cliff known as Circular Head, a precipitous mass of greenstone facing a safe and commodious bay. Most of the township of Stanley occupies the base of the Circular Head declivity on the S. and S.W. side, and overlooks the East Bay and roadstead, where ships of any size can lie under shelter from any winds except from N.E. to S.E. in six to eight fathoms of water. It is the nearest port to Melbourne, with which port there is regular weekly communication. There is a weekly communication with Launceston by steamer, and also by trading vessels. St. Paul's Episcopal is the principal church; there are also Wesleyan, Presbyterian, and Roman Catholic places of worship, a public school, a reading room and public library, with about 1000 volumes, an Assembly Hall with sittings for about 3000, and stage appointments; three hotels—Commercial, Union, and Ship. Many of the buildings are of early date, going back to 1827. It is a place of Petty and General Sessions. A large quantity of potatoes are exported to Sydney. The district contains some of the finest grazing land in the colony, and large supplies of fat cattle are annually sent to Launceston. Population, 332; of district, 1380.

SWANSEA, a township with money order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station, on the western shore of Oyster Bay, in the county, electorate and municipality of Glamorgan, 90 miles N.E. from Hobart, 80 S.E. from Launceston. It contains a public library, with about 700 vols., a public school, two places of worship, two hotels, three stores, municipal and police buildings, and several cottages. A circular wharf, with substantial approach affords facilities for the landing goods and passengers. Schooners trade regularly to the metropolis, and there is a partial coach communication via Spring Bay. A public conveyance runs from Richmond to Swansea, and one from Ayco to Swansea twice a week. A Court of Petty and General Sessions is held here. Population, 244; of the district, 1,027.

TORQUAY, a township with money order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station, and port of entry, in the county of Devon, electorate of East Devon, and police district of Port Sorell, at the mouth of the river Mersey, about 190 miles N.W. from Hobart and 70 N.W. from Launceston, to and from which latter place a steamer plies once a week. The railway extension from Deloraine is now open to Fornaby, a town on the opposite bank of the river Mersey, and connected with Torquay by a ferry. There are a public school and library, a literary institute, and a custom house. Court of Petty and General Sessions is held here. Shipping requirements are met by jetty. The district is of an agricultural character, and is heavily timbered. It has been found to possess considerable resources in copper, iron, and coal.

ULVERSTONE, on the river Lever, in the county of Devon, electorate of West Devon, and police district of Port Sorell, is a flourishing seaport and agricultural centre, 74 miles N.W. of Launceston, and 13 miles W. of Torquay. A post town with money order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station. The Lever port is the second of those of importance on the N.W. coast; a large amount of timber (paling, blackwood, &c.) is shipped from here, and the S.S. Devon makes this a port of call on its weekly visits to the coast. The town of Ulverstone is the business centre for the rising settlements of Castra and neighbourhood. It has three churches, three hotels, a town hall with public library of 265 vols. and a reading room attached, a branch of the Bank of Australasia, and several stores. The Ulverstone Farmer's Club holds its meetings, and its annual agricultural show here. The scenery above the Lever bridge is exceedingly picturesque, the view from the bridge being one that could hardly be surpassed. The river is navigable for small boats some seven miles above the bridge and affords a delightful retreat for the pleasure seeker and fisher for black fish and lobster. There is good herring fishing in the river Gawler, 3 miles from the Leven.

WESTBURY, a township situated on Quamby's Creek, in the county of Westmoreland, municipality and electorate of Westbury, 140 miles N. of Hobart, and 20 miles S.W. of Launceston, by road, by rail 35 miles. It has a money order office, saving's bank and telegraph station, and a public library of 1,450 vols. It has three places of worship, a public school, and four hotels. Population 1,156, of district, 4,872, now 5,491. It is a station on the Launceston and Western Railway, fares, 5s. and 4s. The Western Agricultural Association has its head quarters here. There is a working Man's Benefit Club, and a Temperance and Oddfellows Hall.

VICTORIA is a Township on the banks of the Huon River, at its junction with the Mountain River, in the county of Buckingham, police district of Franklin, and electorate of Kingborough. It is 24 miles south west of Hobart, with which it is connected by a good road and a bridge over the Huon. The principal industry in the neighbourhood is the timber trade. Coal has been discovered near the head of a gully which empties into an eastern tributary of the Huon, nearly opposite Franklin. This coal is of a slaty character, especially near the reef, but then bright patches of bituminous matter intervene here and there, and lower down it is said to be nearly all bituminous. Hops are extensively grown along the banks of the river. There are several saw-mills in the district. There is one hotel, the "Trenie," three stores, a public school, Episcopal Church, and Wesleyan Chapel. There is a daily mail coach to the Metropolis, fare, 5s. It is a telegraph station, saving's bank, and money order office township.

WYNYARD, on the river Ingles, a township and port of entry, with money order office, saving's bank, and telegraph station, in the county and electorate of Wellington, police district of Enn Bay, 104 miles N.W. from Launceston, and 247 N.W. from Hobart, with a population of 168 persons. There are four places of worship, a public school, a town hall, two private schools, a public library with 700 vols., and assembly rooms, a branch of the Bank of Australasia, three stores and two hotels. It is a place of Petty Sessions. Population, 168, of district, 900. In the neighbourhood, about one and a half mile from the township, and connected by a tramway with the wharf and back timber country is a large saw-mill belonging to Messrs. Moore and Quiggin. Blackwood and stringy bark are the principal woods.

TASMANIAN RAILWAYS.

The railway systems of Tasmania at present consist of the Tasmanian Main Line Railway, extending from Hobart to Launceston, 133 miles, opened in 1876; the Launceston and Western Railway from Launceston to Formby, 82 miles, opened as far as Deloraine in 1871, and Formby in 1885; the Fingal Railway from the Corners Junction of the Main Line Railway to St. Marys, 47 miles, opened in June, 1886; the Oatlands Railway from the Main Line Railway Station of Parattah to Oatlands, $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles, opened in 1885; the Derwent Valley Railway, from the Bridge-water Station of the Main Line Railway to Glenora, 24 miles; and the Scottsdale Railway from Launceston to Scottsdale, 47 miles, the latter two being in course of construction.

Acts of Parliament have also been passed for the construction of the following lines:—From Bellerive to Sorell, 14 miles, Brighton to Apsley 37 miles, Formby to Ulverstone 12 miles, Chudleigh to Mole Creek 13 miles.

LAUNCESTON AND WESTERN RAILWAY.

A trip by the Launceston and Western Railway is quite worth taking by any visitor to Tasmania who wishes to return with some correct notion of its agricultural capacities. The beautiful country which lies on the route of the Main Road and the Main Line of Railway is not characterised in many places by fertility of soil. There are wide stretches of fine pasture land, much very poor soil, covered with forests of no large growth, and very little that has hitherto at least encouraged the work of the plough and the spade. The Western Line, on the contrary, passes through some of the finest farm lands of the island.

The Launceston station lies on the north side of the river, immediately beyond the Tamar bridge, and was placed in that inconvenient and distant locality with the view of extending it to that part of the river where large ships anchor, beyond what is called the Town Point.

It immediately crosses the North Esk by a wooden bridge, and in passing through the rich river flats up the valley it recrosses it close to Hobler's Bridge, on the road to Ringaroomo tin mines, and again in the course of another two miles, and at a distance of four miles reaches the St. Leonards station.

The valley is here pleasant and homelike, and from the surrounding high lands, a diversified landscape of mountain, hill, and valley, farms, forest, and river presents an agreeable variety. This promises to be a favourite spot for villas, when the proprietors can be persuaded to sell. The road then ascends continuously up the sides of the hills, and through some heavy cutting till it reaches the edge of the plateau at Evandale.

Evandale Junction.—At this station the railway divides, one line goes to Hobart, the other to the Mersey. We continue on the latter. The present railway system connects the principal rivers of Tasmania, the Tamar and Mersey at the north, to the Derwent at the south. Evandale is a pretty little township at a distance of about two miles from the station, and close to the South Esk. It is surrounded by rich farms, and from the absence of hills is exposed to every wind that blows. The line then skirts the slopes that overhang the river, and Mr. Gibson's pleasant residence called Native Point, appears on the opposite bank.

Perth, three miles beyond Evandale, is a charming village, and is the site of an annual regatta. The Main Road also passes through it. Three miles farther on lies Longford, a village occupying the space of a city, in the midst of fine estates surrounding it on every side. Here also an annual regatta takes place. The Agricultural Society holds its October shows in a large field, fenced for the purpose. Except to those learned in cattle, sheep, and agricultural implements, it is a weary, dreary show yard, which could easily be made both pleasant and useful by planting suitable trees for shelter and ornaments. There however may be seen sheep, cattle and horses celebrated throughout Australia, and which occasionally fetch startling prices from buyers from other colonies. The church lies in the midst of spacious and well-kept grounds, and possesses a large stained glass window, presented by a parishioner many years ago, at a cost of £500. The building is unfinished, not in good repair, and being of a bad style, or of no style, is not creditable to the rich gentlemen of the surrounding country.

Farther on are the fat lands of the Bishopsbourne and Christ College Estates, of the Oaks and Glenore, and after several stoppages the Hagley station is reached, which adjoins the magnificent estate of the Quamby, formerly the property of the Dry family, now in the hands of a wealthy absentee named Phelps. The beautiful stone church on the hill is of the second period of Gothic architecture; the chancel is very handsome; the pavement is of encaustic tiles. A rich reredos of Gothic stone panelling with very deep mouldings supports the east window, which is filled with a picture of stained glass illustrative of our Lord. At the north and south walls are magnificent copies of celebrated Italian pictures. Beneath the chancel repose the remains of Sir Richard Dry, the principal subscriber, and in whose memory this part of the church was erected after his death, at a cost of upwards of £1000. From the parsonage the view over the rich plains to the grand Western Tiers is superb.

Four miles further is the scattered township of Westbury, where are pretty churches belonging to the Anglican and Roman communions. Quamby Bluff, an isolated but lofty mountain, standing like an outpost of the gigantic wall behind it, is on the left hand. The train then rushes past the rich meadows belonging to the Fields and Martins. Beyond Exton the land is divided into smaller estates, and at last reaches the picturesque village of Deloraine.

Deloraine lies on both banks of the Meander, which is crossed by a new wooden bridge, and is surrounded by one of the finest agricultural districts in the colony. The long central plain, which reaches from the Half-way-House on the Hobart road, breaks into a rolling country with a great variety of landscape, and from an altitude of about 600 feet passes down the Mersey valley beneath the sublime prospect of Mount Roland to the sea level on the north coast. From the church the prospect is very fine; on the opposite side of the river is the parsonage and grammar school founded by the late incumbent, the Rev. E. P. Adams. The falls of the Meander in this locality are magnificent.

The next station is on the Chudleigh Road, and not many miles off are the magnificent limestone caves, whose extent has not yet been explored. At the village of Chudleigh, conveyances can always be obtained.

Dunorlan is the next station, then the Whiteford Hills. After that the line runs down the valley of the Coiler rivulet, crossing its bright waters several times; then the beautiful Mersey River is crossed at Kimberley's Ford, near which enters a fine rocky stream, in parts running through deep gorges, and appropriately called the Dasher.

Railton is the nearest station to Sheffield, a township, eight miles on the wide and rich settlement of Kentish Plains.

Latrobe, so called after the first Governor of Victoria, who had previously been for a short time in authority in this island, is the chief town on the coast, and has a considerable trade in the export of agricultural produce. Here are three banks, several comfortable hotels, good shops, churches, and public school. Altogether the place is thriving. On the other side of the river towards the Don, are coal mines, which have been worked for many years.

Parleton and Spreyton are the two next stations, and then Fornby is the present termination of the railway. Its extension along the coast is likely to be undertaken at no distant date.

Fornby is a charming seaport, at the mouth of the Mersey inlet, sloping to the north and east, and on the opposite or eastern side a few hundred yards of water lying between, is Torquay, equally pretty and attractive. The North Down beach some ten miles long, lies beyond Torquay, and reaches almost to Port Sorrell. For riding, driving, boating, or fishing in the fresh water near Latrobe, time could be most pleasantly spent, and its nearness to Melbourne puts it within the reach of many, who would not go to a greater distance.

At present breaks run to the Emu Bay and Table Cape, the road continually bordering on the sea, and rising over high hills, affording fine views. At other times running over the flat of a raised beach, or in the face of a steep, overhanging the sea. It crosses the Rivers Don, Forth, Leven, Blyth, Emu, Cam, and Inglis, which last enters the sea beneath the shelter of the fine bluff of Table Cape. The scenery is everywhere beautiful, without being grand; and the splendid sandy beaches, the bright rivers, with their fish, and the countless streams of everflowing water, the rich farm lands, the picturesque townships and harbours, small indeed, but useful, with the sea bathing, will make at no distant date, this charming coast a favourite visiting ground for holiday seekers.

From Emu Bay a railway has been constructed by the Van Diemens Land Company, to the valuable tin mines of Mount Bischoff. It passes for fifty-five miles through the company's land, cutting through a splendid myrtle forest, and crossing the Wey, which flows into the Hellyer, and shortly afterwards the latter river which enters the Arthur, which conveys the waters of these and many other mountain streams into the Southern Ocean.

The town of Waratah, 2000 feet above the sea, is situated at the foot of Mount Bischoff, which rises 500 feet more. It contains upwards of 1200 inhabitants. The mine is well worth a visit, most of it is an open quarry some eighty feet high. For some years past one company has been paying £6000 dividends, about every four weeks, and still appears likely to do so for many a coming year. The view from the top of the mount is very extensive, looking over the sea of forest. The grand cone of Valentines Peak first attracts the eye; far off on the horizon, mountain ranges stand round like a distant fence. Cradle mountain to the S.E. 5069 feet is the highest in Tasmania. Mount Ramsay to the south is rich in bismuth. The huge dark back of the Norfolk ranges shuts out the sea on the west. Gold has been found in payable quantities in different places. The country is wild, barren, covered with dense forests of various kinds. The gigantic myrtle, with its dark rich foliage, the stately sassafras of a lighter green, and in the lower lands the eucalypte, are the principal trees. By some of the rivers grow a species of pine, giving large and valuable logs to the timber merchant; and indications of mineral wealth are abundant.

The enterprise of Howard Smith and Co. have joined this coast by steamer to Melbourne and Sydney. Their steamer calls at Circular Head, Fornby, and the intervening ports. A Launceston Company runs two steamers from Launceston to the various ports as far as Circular Head.

When the writer first visited this coast, it was all but inaccessible, and uninhabited. There were no roads and no bridges, and the traveller was obliged to travel on the shore, waiting for low tide, that he might ford the rivers, and ride in the sea round the headlands; now it has become the home of thriving farmers, and is approached by roads, railways, and steamers, and promises to be one of the most pleasant amongst these southern regions.

THE MAIN LINE RAILWAY.

FROM LAUNCESTON TO HOBART.

The Launceston terminus to the main Line Railway is situated on Cimitiere-street, adjoining the gasworks, and opposite the Public Park.

For the first eleven miles the Main Line runs over the Western Railway to the Evandale Junction, whence it pursues its own course, and passes under the brow of the hill, on which the pretty English looking village of Evandale is situated.

The South Esk River is crossed by a bridge, near Clarendon House, the seat of Mr. James Cox.

Epping Forest, which lies in the upland plain, is little better than a barren bed of gravel, but on either side lie the fertile valleys of the South Esk and Macquarie Rivers. From the station at the Corners, the road to Palmouth turns off. A branch railway to Fingal is now being constructed. Seven miles further on is Campbelltown, where a party of American astronomers observed the transit of Venus. It is situated on the Elizabeth River in the centre of a prosperous agricultural and pastoral district, and contains some good hotels. At Ross the line crosses the Macquarie River on a long bridge, as the surrounding land is subject to floods. Valuable freestone abounds, a material of which the beautiful little church is constructed. Petrifications are found in the neighbourhood. Horton College, a school belonging to the Wesleyans, a brick structure, is built at the foot of one of the adjoining hills. This tract of scenery is noted for its excellent pasturage, and some of the wealthiest settlers have their properties here. Mona Vale House, the palatial residence of Mr. Kermode, lies close to the line from which it can be well seen. Profitable efforts have been made to irrigate this and the adjoining estates.

Tunbridge is a notable part of the railway to those who intend to visit the Lakes. Capital accommodation will be found here with attention and civility at moderate charges. The proprietor of one of the stores is the person to arrange with for a start to the Lakes from this point. Necessary provisions, including horses' food, etc., would be provided by him, and he would be willing to accompany a party as a guide. After leaving Tunbridge, no particular object of interest is seen till the picturesque country around Antill Ponds is reached. At this point, the line leaves the old main road, which it has accompanied from the north side of Epping Forest, and now it turns eastward to get round the confused mass of hills which lies in front. Here the engineering difficulties began, and were overcome by numerous sharp curves and steep gradients, which continue as far as Bridgewater.

Oatlands, a very handsome town on the highlands, and forming the watershed northward towards Launceston, and southwards towards the Derwent, lies at the distance of four and a half miles from the Parattah Railway Station. It is well situated and handsomely built with bright freestone, a large windmill, and a church spire of that material coming out boldly in the landscape. All the trains stop at Parattah for refreshments, and excellent hotel accommodation will be found here. A branch railway has lately been constructed from Parattah Station to Oatlands township.

Beyond the Parattah station are the shallow waters of Lake Tiberias, covered with aquatic plants, so that it has the appearance of a large plain. Eels abound in the lake. Wildfowl and rabbits are plentiful in its vicinity. A long tunnel next receives the train in darkness, which emerges at the head of a deep and romantic gorge, which widens into a broad valley, bounded by a confused mass of rounded forest hills. The Horse Shoe Bend, where the Coal rivulet is crossed is remarkable for a long steep gradient, combined with a sharp curve, and the traveller when passing the mouth of the coal mine looks up to the heights on the left, where he had been only a few minutes previously. Further on lies the pretty village of

Jurusalem, after which the train sweeps round a series of fine looking and lofty hills, covered with dark forests on the left, and leaving the rich plains of

Campania, where there is a station for the inhabitants of Richmond, Sorrell, and the East Coast, and where the coaches for Swansea, Southport, etc., connect it reaches the Brighton Station, ten miles further on. This is the connecting point for the coaches to Green Ponds, Melton Moubay, and Bothwell.

The Derwent Valley, with its majestic background of mountains, is next seen at a considerable below; the old main road is rejoined, and crossed, and recrossed, as the train rushes down, apparently anxious to take a plunge into the broad waters of the River Derwent. From the north side of the river a branch railway is now in course of construction to New Norfolk and Glenora. A huge pile drawbridge, and a long causeway side by side with those, which form part of the old main road, connects the two banks of the river, which is navigable for small steamers as far as New Norfolk, ten miles higher up. From this point the line skirts the right bank of the river into town, and affords a succession of lake-like scenery, such as would anywhere awaken admiration. The low hills on the right, sheltered by the mountains, behind are covered with farms, orchards, cottages, and stately mansions. It only needs the rich foliage of other parts of the world, and more buildings to make it perfect; and it is no doubt destined to become as famous for its beauty as any of those classic spots in the old world, which have furnished themes for the poet, and subjects for the painter. The village of O'Brien's Bridge is nestled among hop grounds, and lies on the bank of a rivulet from Mount Wellington. The Landslip is seen at the back of the village, near the top of the mountain. The Elwick racecourse, to which there is a branch railway, is next passed, then the line going over a viaduct, beneath which is the Risdon Road, cuts off the cemetery of Cornelian Bay from Newtown, and skirting the Domain, and the Gardens of Government House, M'Gregor's ship yard, the Bathing and Boating Club Houses, it enters the terminus in Liverpool-street, Hobart.

FROM HOBART TO LAUNCESTON.

The Hobart terminus of the railway is complete and well situated, its front being on Liverpool-street, which is the chief business street of the city. Crossing Macquarie-street the line runs round the whole sea frontage of the Queen's Domain, passing the slaughter yards, Queen's Battery, Regatta Stand, Bathing and Boating Club Houses, and M'Gregor's ship yard. It then enters the paddocks and lovely gardens of Government House, and of the Royal Society, which it severs from the river. Passing out of the Domain at Cornelian Bay, it runs abreast of the Newtown cemetery grounds to the Risdon Road, which it crosses on a timber viaduct, and passes through Newtown, where there is a station.

The junction of the branch railway to the Elwick racecourse is passed midway between Newtown and O'Brien's Bridge, where the next station occurs.

The railway then follows the main road through Glenorchy to Bridgewater, keeping near the river and affording to travellers the most exquisite and ever-changing views of mountains, woods, and the beautiful River Derwent, which is crossed at Bridgewater by a long pile bridge parallel to that on the main road. Here there is a convenient station for New Norfolk, Hamilton, and the important country on the Rivers Derwent, Ouse, and Clyde. A railway is now in course of construction from this station to New Norfolk and Glenora. The railway has next to rise northerly and to cross the Horse Shoe Gully, which is effected by a lofty timber viaduct, and then the line again descends to the River Jordan at Brighton, over which it is carried by a bridge and where is the next station for the inhabitants of the Broadmarsh, Green Ponds, and Bothwell districts.

The railway now runs through the districts of the Tea Tree and Coal Rivers,

The Colonial Mutual Life Assurance Society

stopping on the rich Campania Estate to afford station accommodation for the inhabitants of Richmond Sorrell, and the East Coast.

Jerusalem is the classic name of the quiet and ancient settlement next visited, where a station is passed. Shortly afterwards the slopes of the Flat Top Hill are ascended. After passing round the Horse Shoe Bend on the Coal River, the line burrows into the top of the hill and passes under it by a long tunnel, emerging into more forests and then skirting the waters of lake Tiberias, renowned here as elsewhere, but deriving its celebrity from the shelter it is thought to afford to that mysterious amphibious animal the "bunyip," who has been heard by several most credible witnesses to roar and thunder from its cover of long rushes.

At the end of Broad Valley a station for Outlands is placed, the town being $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles distant, to which a branch line was authorised, and the railway goes forward through the rich agricultural districts of Eastern Marshes and York Plains, on the luxuriant grasses of which large herds of well-bred cattle are seen grazing.

The rocky and romantic banks of the York Rivulet next invite the railway passenger to stay for a picnic but the railway descends to the Half Way House which is midway on the main road between Hobart and Launceston.

Here the railway again crosses the main road, (having been absent from it for about 50 miles) and continues in sight of it and nearly along the same course the whole distance to Snake Banks near Perth. In doing so it passes through the townships of Antill Ponds, Tunbridge, Ross, and Campbelltown, at which places stations are provided in convenient situations.

Near Ross the line passes round near the celebrated estate and mansion of Mona Vale and over the Macquarie River by a long bridge on stone piers, this river being subject to an enormous distension of size, in the event of floods. The Elizabeth River at Campbelltown is crossed by a large bridge and seven miles beyond here at "The Corners" is the station for Fingal, Swansea, Avoca, and the East Coast also for the mineral districts of Ben Lomond, George's Bay, Gould's Country, and Blue Tier. A railway to Fingal is now in course of construction. Beyond this the line is almost buried in the shady groves of Epping Forest and so by Cleveland, the Forest Hotel and Snake Banks the line reaches the South Esk River, which it crosses by a pile bridge of unusual length to Clarendon House which is passed within a stone's throw and then after going close to the quiet and pretty village of Evandale (where there is a station) it joins the Launceston and Western Railway at Evandale junction and is carried on a third rail into Launceston where the station is situated on Cimitiere-street, immediately opposite the Public Gardens and about three minutes' drive from the landing wharves.

The railway is throughout what is known as the narrow gauge, the rails being only $3\frac{1}{2}$ feet apart. The carriages are built on the convenient American system which allows a free passage through the train.

The coach service in connection with the trains is from the New Norfolk Road station to New Norfolk, Hamilton. The Ouse and Glenora, for the Upper Derwent; from the Brighton Station to Brighton, Bagdad, Constitution Hill, Green Ponds, Melton Moubay, and Bothwell; from Campania to Richmond, Swansea, and the East Coast; from Corners to Avoca, Fingal, St. Mary's, Falmouth, and George's Bay.

Conveyances meet the trains at the Campbelltown and Evandale stations and at the termini.

DERWENT VALLEY RAILWAY.

It branches out from the Main Line Railway at North Bridgewater, 12 miles from Hobart, and runs along the north side of the Derwent River, and comes so near to it in places, that retaining walls have to be built on the edge of the river to keep up the embankments. The line ends at a fence near a large stump at Glenora.

The country through which the line runs as far as New Norfolk, 11 miles, is barren, will neither grow grass nor corn. At the ten mile the Derbyshire Rocks are reached, at this spot the railway and the road which up to this spot run parallel join together, and is called a joint occupancy for $\frac{3}{4}$ of a mile. It will be a bad job for the horse if he should refuse to pull the cart and get stuck when the engine comes along. These Derbyshire Rocks are better known by the name of Hell's Gates. A few hundred yards farther we come to the spot where the Pulpit Rock so long existed, but now the greater portion of it is in the bottom of the river, having been blasted down recently. The river is on the left about forty feet deep with cliffs 300 to 500 feet high on the right, with just enough room at the foot to lay the permanent way. Should the locomotive leave the rails at this spot it will be good-bye to all in the train. From here on is open country, a good many orchards are cut in two before we arrive at No. 1 bridge over the Derwent, it crosses at 15 miles 50 chains from right to left. It consists of 9 spans 64 feet each, and two of 24 feet each at the ends. The piers are constructed of masonry with iron girders, this will be used as a road and railway bridge. Horses will walk as at the Derbyshire Rocks between the rails. River Plenty is reached at 18 miles, a small tributary into the Derwent, one 64 feet span and two 24 feet each, masonry piers and iron girders. No. 2 bridge is reached at 20½ miles and the Derwent is again crossed from left to right with 3 spans 64 feet, wrought iron piers circular ended filled with concrete, and two spans 24 feet, masonry piers, iron girders as at No. 1 bridge and Plenty River. Then No. 3 bridge is reached at 22 miles, 6 spans of 64 feet each, iron piers as at No. 2 with two 24 feet masonry piers, iron girders the same as others, finally ending as before mentioned at fence and stump at Glenora, near which is situated Bushy Park, a beautiful estate consisting of many orchards and hop gardens, and owned and occupied by Mr. E. Shoobridge, an old colonist of more than 50 years, and his three sons.

Mr. J. Falkingham is the contractor for the Derwent Valley Railway. It is let to him for £80,614, and the distance is 24 miles, 26 chains.

A Retrospect of the Year, 1886.

(Reprinted from Launceston Examiner, January 1st, 1887.)

A retrospect of the year that has just closed shows that Tasmania has made considerable progress, and is steadily recovering from the period of depression which in 1884 was so widely felt throughout the old world as well as the Australian colonies. Our population on the first of the past year was 133,791, the increase for the previous five years being at the rate of $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum. On 30th November last the estimated population was 135,720 souls. In commercial circles business is dull, and the high rate of interest (six per cent.) offered by the banks is detrimental to enterprise and speculation. The prospects of the mining industry are improving, and there is every hope that the lessons of the wild speculation and excitement of a few years back will not be forgotten, and that future mining ventures will be conducted upon a sounder basis, and company floating in the interests of stockjobbers only will be discouraged. The decline in the price of wool during 1885 led to a large portion of our clip (estimated at 31 per cent.) being held back till the opening sales of the present year at London conveyed the welcome intelligence of a rise in values. The export of wool for 1885 is therefore much below the average, while that of 1886 will be considerably above it. Since the abolition of the stock tax and the relaxation of the quarantine regulations, the import of sheep at both ends of the island and of cattle at Hobart, has been steady, yet the number of sheep in the colony is less than it was ten years ago, owing in a great measure to two bad lambing seasons. The agricultural industry cannot be considered in a satisfactory condition, the tendency for some years having been to divert lands from agricultural to pastoral purposes, the latter being more remunerative. The result is that in 1885 we imported agricultural produce (including live stock) to the value of £167,000, and for 1886 have also imported wheat and flour, as well as sheep and mutton, to a large extent. Our revenue and trade, however, when compared with the figures of but a few years back, show a gratifying expansion, and the material progress made by the colony is shown in the largely increased value of property, the amount to credit of depositors in banks, saving's banks, and building societies, the fact that the marriage rate for the last five years is higher than for any period since 1861-5, and the marked increase in the sale and settlement of Crown Lands. The public debt on 1st August last was £4,091,800, or equal to £302 per head, exclusive of £650,000, part cost of the Main Line, on which five per cent. interest is guaranteed to the company by the colony.

On October 28, His Excellency, Major Sir G. C. Strahan, left Launceston for Melbourne en route for England, he having obtained twelve months' leave of absence on the understanding that he would retire from his Governorship before that period elapsed. For some time Sir George had been suffering from ill health, necessitating his return to the old country. On October 29, the Hon. W. R. Giblin, then Acting Chief Justice, was sworn in as Administrator, he being the first native of Tasmania on whom this honor has been conferred. On November 18, Chief Justice Sir Lambert Dobson—who had been knighted during his sojourn in England—returned to Tasmania per s.s. Arauna, and was sworn in as Administrator. On November 20, a cablegram was received from the Imperial Government announcing that Sir Robert G. C. Hamilton, K.C.B., Permanent Under Secretary for Ireland, had been appointed Governor of Tasmania, and is expected to arrive here about March 8. Sir Robert Hamilton is considered one of the ablest of Great Britain's civil servants, but has been removed from Dublin in consequence of his ultra-Home Rule proclivities, he, in fact, being the reputed author of Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule policy, which proved so decidedly unpopular in England at the last elections. On July 9, the Hon. J. Wallop, Private Secretary to Sir George Strahan, returned to England, and Mr. George Browne has acted as Private Secretary to His Excellency and Acting-Governors since that time.

When we wrote our last summary the eighth Parliament of Tasmania was in its last stages, and it was generally believed that the Government was in a moribund condition. Consequent on the passage of the Constitution Act Amendment Bill, the elections for the new Parliament were to be hastened a year, and as the franchise had been extended to grant a vote to every deserving man in the community, it was universally hoped that with the general elections would come a more vigorous, healthy, political feeling, and that the advent of extended franchise would be the signal for a sweeping away for ever of that half-heartedness, that political stagnancy which has for so long hung like a wet blanket over Tasmanian politics. The hope was also indulged in that the advent of the new Parliament would extrude from the Assembly the class of incompetents who had latterly found their way into that Chamber. On January 18th the royal assent was given to the Constitution Act Amendment Bill, passed during the previous session; and on June 28th the eighth Parliament was dissolved, to the general satisfaction of the community, who indulged the hope that under the extended franchise, "old things would pass away, and all things become new." The elections also had under existing law to be all held on one day, and on July 26th the people of Tasmania selected their rulers. It may, however, be generally stated that all those fond fancies have been rudely dispelled. Excepting at the Capital, the interest taken in the general elections was not greater than at the preceding one, and when the new Parliament met, it was evident that in personnel it was not an improvement on its predecessor. Few of the new members made themselves prominent, and of these some had better have kept in that retirement in the House for which nature intended them if ever fickle fortune should in her vagaries place them in Parliament. The new Assembly consisted of honrs. J. S. Dodds, N. J. Brown, W. H. Burgess, (Ministers), A. Dobson, (Speaker), T. Reibey, Messrs. E. N. C. Braddon, Policies free from all harassing restrictions.

B. S. Bird, W. Hartnoll, W. G. H. Brown, J. M. Dooley, J. W. Falkiner, J. G. Davies, W. Belbin, R. J. Lucas, E. L. Crowther, H. E. Letto, A. T. Pillinger, W. Sidebottom, J. Lyne, J. Gray (old members.) E. H. Sutton, J. Hart, A. Young, H. Conway, A. Crisp, Col. St. Hill, G. P. Fitzgerald, P. Barrett, D. Scott, H. R. Dumaresq, G. F. Huston, N. E. Lewis, S. Hawkes, C. B. M. Fenton C. J. McKenzie (new members.) It was thought that Ministers would have a very small majority, if any, but on the House assembling it was apparent that a working majority existed, and this continued to grow, entirely owing to the tact and tactics of the leader of the House, hon. J. S. Dodds, until the Government had when the session closed a compact following of two thirds of the Assembly. The sitting of 1886 may be known in future as the barren session. A very scant policy had been propounded by Ministers, the chief feature being the substitution of a cash value property tax for the existing annual value. The subject was warmly debated in the House, the opposition advocating a land tax, and this proved the popular policy with the country; so much so that the proposal was enunciated in the Assembly, and then rejected by the Council. Three want of confidence motions were discussed, the leader of the Opposition (Mr. Braddon) in each instance being the prime mover. The first was a motion condemning the Public Works' department in accordance with the report of the Royal Commission on Public Works, the Government carrying a negative division by 21 votes to 12; but their majority included many who had denounced the department as incapable. A second vote was tabled condemning the Government for neglecting to intimate to Parliament certain facts in connection with the now historic negotiations between the Agent-General and the Main Line Railway Company, but the motion was negatived by 18 votes to 13; and a motion of censure on the Agent-General for the same proceeding was lost, twelve voting for it and sixteen opposing. The only really important bills passed during the session were those appointing a third judge, and amending the Marine Board Acts; but several abstract motions affecting vitally important subjects were tabled and carried, such as affirming the desirableness of entering upon reciprocal interchange of colonial products, remission of port charges on English steamers, making the voyage from London to Hobart or Launceston under forty-two days, &c. The financial statement was delivered within a week of Parliament opening. The Treasurer stated the revenue for 1886 would be the largest ever received in the colony, being £600,550 or £31,083 in excess of that of the previous year. The Public Works "rest and be thankful" scheme was very small, being £253,605, and this was considerably reduced in its passage through the Council. The Treasurer's estimate we fear will not be borne out, for up to the end of last month the actual returns showed for the eleven months a decrease of £778 12s. 4d. on those of 1885, and to fulfil the Treasurer's prophecies the revenue of December, 1886, must have exceeded that of 1885 by nearly £10,000. The weakness and degeneracy of the Assembly was never so palpable as during the finance debate. There was not a single member in that chamber competent to grasp the financial position of the colony or the estimates put forth by the Treasurer. In the Council the hon. P. O. Fysh and W. Moore severely criticised the estimates, but the seed fell on barren ground, and although those two members appeared to grasp the situation, they found they were beating the wind for the remainder of Council were like the Assembly, either unable to treat the question properly or preferring to take the statements of the Government in globo rather than accept the responsibility of refuting them. The estimated revenue for 1887 is £629,293, and expenditure £624,868, but as the acknowledged deficit at the end of 1886 is £6862, the deficit at the close of 1887 will be £2438. As, however, several items, notably the now historic £15,000 which Ministers desire to transfer from revenue account to a loans' bill, and considerable sums for completing various railways, have not been provided, it is evident that unless some at present unforeseen impetus is given to the revenue our deficit at the end of 1887 will be much larger, and our financial position much less satisfactory than that painted by the Treasurer. It is palpable to all who do not wilfully close their eyes to the fact that the financial position of the colony must be fairly faced at an early date, and the longer such is deferred the worse it will be for the colony.

Consequent on the appointment of the Hon. A. Douglas, Premier, to the position of Agent-General another reconstruction occurred. A good deal of difficulty transpired in re-forming the Ministry owing to their being two Richmonds in the field in the shape of the Attorney-General and Minister of Lands, each of whom desired to reconstruct and lead the Government. Fortunately there was a return to the acknowledgment of the fundamental principles of constitutional Government—that the retirement of a premier necessitates the resignation of his colleagues, that a ministry terminates its existence when the member thereof responsible to the Crown ceases to hold that position. Mr. Douglas on his retirement advised his Excellency to ask Dr. Agnew to form an administration, but to this Mr. Dodds objected and he being master of the situation Dr. Agnew withdrew from his position and recommended the Governor to send for Mr. Dodds, who formed the present Administration on March 8, the only point in which it differed from its predecessors being Dr. Agnew, being appointed Chief Secretary with the leadership of the Council instead of Mr. Douglas. The Attorney-General, Treasurer, and Minister of Lands went to their constituents, the latter being returned unopposed. Mr. Dodds was opposed by Mr. A. J. Clark, but defeated him easily, whilst Mr. Burgess had no difficulty in distancing Mr. T. Amott, whose candidature appeared to be a mixture of presumption and jest. Mr. Douglas retired on March 5, and the new Cabinet were sworn in on March 8.

The hon. Adye Douglas, Tasmania's first representative in England, left Launceston on March 17, and Melbourne two days later, en route to London, but beyond having involved the colony to an extent not yet known with the Main Line Company, his light appears to have been hidden under a bushel, and Ministers appear to be as much in ignorance of his actions as the public.

In the future of Australasia, when her history is recorded by those yet unborn, January 25, 1886, will stand prominently forward as a red-letter day in her calendar. On that date the first Federal Council assembled; the first foundation stone was then laid of a fabric that at no distant period will grow into a noble structure of Australasia, or, better still Imperial Federation. The Imperial Parliament having passed Act 48 and 49, Vic. ch. 60, "an Act to constitute a Federal Council of Australasian," the same was passed in the Colonial Legislatures of Victoria, Queensland, Tasmania, Western Australia, and Fiji. It having been decided that the first Council should meet at Hobart, His Excellency Sir George Strahan issued a proclamation, dated December 12, 1885, summoning the delegates of those colonies to meet at Hobart on January 25, 1886. The delegates were Hons. James Service (President), Graham Berry, Victoria; hon. Samuel Walker Griffith, Q.C., James Robert Dickson, Queensland; hon. Adye Douglas, John Stokell Dodds, Tasmania; hon. James George Leo Steere, Western Australia; hon. William Macgregor, M.D.C.M.C., Fiji. The Council met in the Legislative Chamber, Hobart, and the delegates paid a fitting tribute in electing as their President, the Hon. James Service, the father of the federal movement. This, however, had its disadvantages, as the Council to some extent were deprived of his active services. The mantle of Elijah, however, descended on a worthy Elisha in the person of Mr. Griffith, who took the leadership of the Council, and right worthily discharged its functions. It was matter for deep regret that New South Wales, New Zealand, and South Australia held aloof from the federal movement, and the Council decided to make their first meeting merely initiatory, and that no action would be taken that would arouse jealousy in the breasts of the unrepresented colonies. The actual proceedings commenced by formulating an address to Her Majesty, assuring her of the unswerving loyalty of the delegates to herself and Great Britain, and a cablegram was sent home to that effect. The following bills were passed: Federal Council Interpretation Act (Mr. Berry), Federal Council Evidence Act (Mr. Berry), Australasian Civil Process Bill (Mr. Griffith), Australasian Federal Judgments Act (Mr. Berry). In addition to these measures, several important subjects were dealt with, such as protectorate of New Guinea, French criminals in the Pacific, necessity of defending King George's Sound, W.A., and other important strategical points in the colonies, necessity of establishing a Federal Court of Appeal, that the various colonial legislatures should come to an agreement for indemnifying persons who, in case of war, should sacrifice their property to prevent its aiding the enemy, and the desirableness of establishing an arsenal in Australia for manufacturing munitions of war for Australasia. A standing committee was appointed, consisting of the senior delegates of Victoria, Queensland, and Tasmania, to represent the Council during recess, and prepare a programme for the next meeting, Mr Griffith being elected chairman thereof. When viewing the actual work performed by the Council, a feeling of disappointment cannot be suppressed, but the peculiar position they occupied should not be forgotten. The jealousy, especially of New South Wales, had to be carefully guarded against, and the Council had to anxiously endeavour to steer clear of the Charybdis of intercolonial jealousy on the part of those unrepresented at the Council, whilst avoiding the Scylla of inaction, and the liability of the taunt of incompetency to deal with important matters. It is matter for sincere regret that the Council have decided not to meet till 1887, the postponement being ostensibly owing to the belief that South Australia will then be represented, but the real cause yet remains to be made public.

On February 23, a Royal Commission was appointed to enquire into and report upon the mode of construction of public works and railways in Tasmania, the Hon. W. A. Zeal, Victoria (chairman), Mr H. C. Stanley, M.I.C.E., chief engineer of railways, Queensland, and Mr. A. W. Lawder, M.L., F.G.S., India, being selected as commissioners, Mr. T. C. Just being Secretary. The commissioners held their first meeting on February 23, at Hobart, and had 63 sittings, during which voluminous evidence was adduced, and published verbatim. The commissioners also travelled throughout the country personally, inspecting public works constructed, and in course of construction. A lengthy report was forwarded to Ministers generally, condemning the public works system obtaining in Tasmania, and severely criticising the modus operandi of the department. The action of the Government in letting loose the vials of wrath of the censured officers of the department on the heads of the commissioners, and the treatment accorded the latter gentlemen by Ministers, which was unfortunately endorsed and sanctioned by a majority of Parliament, has become historic, and will, it is feared, sadly militate against a Tasmanian Government obtaining the services of professional gentlemen to act in a similar capacity in future. That the commissioners did their work ably and honestly cannot be denied, and that beneficial results will accrue from their labours is also apparent, despite the scant courtesy accorded the gentlemen selected by the very Government, which so cavalierly rejected the commissioner's report, because it condemned a system almost universally acknowledged to be faulty and pernicious in its effects.

The hon. W. L. Dobson, Chief Justice of Tasmania, who left for England on March 5, 1885, on leave of absence, was knighted on May 24, 1886, and returned to Hobart on November 17. Sir Henry Wrensfordley, Acting Puisne Judge, who had formally bid adieu to the Tasmanian Bar, had intended to leave for Melbourne after Sir Lambert Dobson's return, but he consented to remain until the end of the year, the hon. W. R. Giblin having, on Nov. 21, obtained leave of absence until that time on account of ill health. In January Mr. F. J. P. Norman was appointed Registrar and Deputy Sheriff at Launceston in succession to Mr. G. Smith but he died on April 29, Mr. W. Hunt being appointed to succeed him on May 7, and assuming his duties on May 25. Early in April Mr. H. T. A. Murray, Police Magistrate of Launceston, left on leave of absence through ill health, returning on 24th December, after having visited New South Wales, Queensland, and Victoria. Early in May His Honor Mr. John Whiteford, Recorder and Commissioner of the Courts of Bankruptcy and Requests, etc., at Launceston, was seized with a paralytic stroke, and was incapacitated from work, and Mr. R. J. Beadon M. A., was appointed as his substitute, his first court at Launceston being held on June 1, and he still acts as Deputy Commissioner. On August 1, Mr. R. P. Adams, Solicitor-General, was granted six months leave of absence, Mr. J. A. Jackson being appointed his locum tenens.

In April the Rev. C. H. Young, from Adelaide, was appointed curate of Holy Trinity Church in succession to the Rev. R. H. Cole, who resigned some months previously in consequence of having decided to leave for England. In October a call was given from Chalmers Church, Launceston, to the Rev. D. S. Brunton, late of Ballan, Victoria and he, having accepted the same, was inducted on the 28th of the same month. On March 1 the Rev. A. Cass, incumbent of St. Peter's Church, St. Leonards, left for England on a twelve months' leave of absence, his place being supplied by the Rev. J. Evans of St. Mark's Church, Deloraine, while the Rev. J. G. Morling, from George Town, took charge at Deloraine, the latter being succeeded by the Rev. J. S. Babington, from Port Cygnet. Pastor Hiddlestone having resigned his charge of the Reed Memorial Church, Wellington-street, in April, Pastor G. Soitau, of London, was appointed to succeed him, and he arrived in Launceston on August 27. During the year only one ordination has been held in connection with the Church of England, viz., at Trinity Church on June 24, when Mr. A. H. Champion, head master of the Launceston Church Grammar School, was admitted to deacon's orders by Bishop Sandford. In the middle of May the health of the Rev. Canon Brownrigg, incumbent of St. John's Church, became so impaired that he had to seek a leave of absence from his parishioners, and towards the end of the month he left for Queensland, the Rev. S. Hart, late of St. Barnabas's Church, Sydney, being appointed as his locum tenens, and in June Mr. Hart was appointed assistant clergyman to the church. The warmer climate of Queensland had a beneficial effect on Canon Brownrigg's health and he returned to Launceston on November 9, but contemplates removing permanently to Queensland before long. On October 7 the jubilee year of the Tamar-street Independent Church was celebrated; the pastor of the church, the Rev. Charles Price, arrived in Hobart from England on August 23, 1832. On November 21 the Rev. J. W. H. Geiss, on account of ill health retired as incumbent of the Avoca and Fingal parishes, after six and a half year's service.

In January the Central Board of Health was appointed at Hobart, to administer the Public Health Act passed by Parliament in 1885, the Municipal Councils throughout the island being constituted local boards of health. The Act was however defective, and an amending bill was introduced last session, but was withdrawn by the Government because the Assembly struck out the salaries for 1887 of the president (Dr. Perkins) and members of the Central Board, which will bring matters to a dead lock at the close of this year. In June Dr. Murphy was appointed health officer at Launceston at a nominal salary in order to comply with the law, the local board doing good work with Mr. J. G. Bushman still in the position of sanitary officer which he had previously held under the Municipal Council. Mr. A. Mault, Inspector of the Central Board has prepared elaborate reports on the drainage of Hobart and Launceston, and but for the action of the Assembly would have visited and reported upon the sanitary requirements of the principal centres of population throughout the island. In response to an invitation from Mr. John Young, Mayor of Sydney, a municipal jubilee was held at Sydney from the 12th to the 18th October, the Municipal Councils of both Hobart and Launceston being represented at the large gathering of aldermen from all parts of the Australian colonies.

On 2nd February Mr. F. Back, formerly traffic manager of the Canterbury railways, N.Z., was appointed general manager of Tasmanian Government Railways. On June 29 the Fingal line, commenced in the latter end of 1884 by Messrs. McNeil, Grant, and Bath, was formally opened, a banquet being given at Fingal, at which members of the Ministry of both Houses of Parliament, and a number of leading colonists were present, special trains running from both Hobart and Launceston to Fingal. The special train on the Main Line, when returning to Hobart on the night of the banquet, ran off the rails three miles north of Brighton, through the driver putting on too much speed on a section abounding in curves. The driver and fireman were killed, the hon. J. W. Agnew, Premier, hon. J. S. Dodda, Attorney-General, and hon. W. H. Burgess, Treasurer, and several other residents of Hobart were injured, the Treasurer coming off worst, it being some time before his health was restored. On July 21 another serious accident occurred on the Main Line, the swing bridge at the Bridgewater causeway being left unfastened, and the express train from Launceston thereby getting off the rails, and having a narrow escape of going bodily into the river Derwent. As it was, the fireman and one passenger were drowned. On July 11 a contractor's engine and trucks ran off the Fingal line at Avoca, through the points not being properly closed, and Mr. James Law, contractor's foreman, was killed, and two persons injured. On 3rd August the Fingal railway was damaged by floods near Killynoon. In April the tender of Mr. W. H. Knight, at £3,990, was accepted for 200 iron hopper coal boxes for the Fingal railway, over half of which are now delivered.

The private railways open in Tasmania at the close of 1886 are the Tasmanian Main Line Company line from Hobart to Launceston, 133 miles, cost £1,188,316; and the Van Diemen's Land Company's line from Emu Bay to Mount Bischoff, 45 miles, cost £140,129. The Government railways are—Launceston to Deloraine, 45 miles, cost £465,494; Deloraine to Formby, 37 miles cost £190,456; Corners to St. Mary's, 47 miles, cost £180,000; and Parattah to Oatlands, 4 miles, cost £11,500. The lines in course of construction are—Bridgewater to Glenora, 23½ miles, estimated to cost £164,000; Launceston to Scottsdale, 44 miles, estimated cost £370,000. The following lines have also been sanctioned by Parliament—Brighton to Apsley, 27 miles, Bellerive to Sorell, 15 miles; Chudleigh-road station to Mole Creek, 12½ miles; Formby to Leven, 12 miles.

The defence movement has manifested a marked decline during the year just closed. Through official bungling at head-quarters the regulations under the Defence Act, passed in 1885, were not issued till the early part of 1886, the members of the force being only allowed about three weeks to consider whether they would engage under the new system. The result was that a very large number declined. On April 22 the Easter encampment of the defence forces was held on the Williamswood estate, near Ross, but was far behind that of the previous year. On September 16 Sergeant-Major Falconer, drill instructor of the Hobart Artillery Corps, left for New Zealand, where he had obtained the position of Torpedo Superintendent with the rank of Lieutenant. On October 3 a successful encampment of cadet corps belonging to the various schools at Hobart was held at Elwick, and on November 9 the Launceston Artillery and Rifles held an encampment near St. Leonards, which was not well attended. In November, Sergeant Major Rafferty, of Hobart, was appointed instructor to the country rifle clubs, which have been placed under the supervision of Colonel Bernard. On September 25, Captain G. T. Collins, of the Launceston Artillery Corps, was promoted to be Major, and Lieutenant and Adjutant G. E. Harrap to be captain and on October 15 Mr. W. Croft to be Lieutenant. On October 5 Lieutenant T. H. Gould, of the Launceston Rifle Regiment, was promoted to be Captain, and in December, Major William Aikenhead, commanding officer of the Launceston Rifles and Cadet Corps, resigned his command, his loss being much felt by these corps, which he has so long kept together, and leaves in a good financial position. In December it was again promised by the Government that an early start should be made with the new rifle butts at Launceston, and a commencement has now been made.

A change was effected in the Mines Department in January, Mr. Bernard Shaw resigning the position of Secretary of Mines to take that of Inspector of Police, rendered vacant by the death of Mr. John Swan. Mr. F. Belstead, Commissioner at Launceston, was appointed Secretary of Mines at Hobart, and in June Mr. W. H. Glover, Commissioner for the West Coast, was transferred to Launceston, and Mr. H. L. Crowther, of Franklin, was appointed stipendiary magistrate and Commissioner of Mines and goldfields for Waratah and the West Coast, entering on his duties early in September. In January both diamond drills were employed in an ineffectual search for coal at Belmont, near Longford, and Carr Villa, three miles south of Launceston. The No. 2 drill is now employed on the Mount Bischoff Alluvial T.M. Co.'s claim at Waratah, and the No. 1 boring for coal on the Harefield estate, Fingal. In gold and tin mining the Tasmania Company at Beaconsfield, and the Mount Bischoff Company at Waratah, still head the list. Between October, 1878, and November, 1886, the Tasmania Company has raised 7 tons 9 cwt. of gold, and in the last week in December paid its 27th dividend, making a total of £392,000 paid in dividends. The Mount Bischoff Company on December 4 paid its 112th dividend, making a total of £690,000 paid in dividends. The applications of three companies at Lefroy and two at Beaconsfield for a share in the £5000 voted by Parliament in 1885 as grant-in-aid to deep sinking have been approved, but operations have not yet been commenced. The Mount Cameron water scheme for bringing in water from the Great Mussel Roe river to the stanniferous deposits on the east bank of the Ringarooma, opposite Mount Cameron, was again passed by the Assembly, and again shelved by the Council attaching impracticable conditions. The great event of the year has been the auriferous discoveries on the West Coast, the Linda or Mount Lyell goldfield having come prominently to the front in July by the discovery of hydro-thermal formations rich in gold, and similar in character to the Mount Morgan mine in Queensland. As yet no mining operations, except alluvial workings, have been commenced, but Mr. G. Thureau, F.G.S., who was despatched to the field in October last, reports most favourably upon the extent and probable value of the auriferous "iron blow." In February and March the Mount Nicholas and Cornwall Coal Companies were formed to work a portion of the extensive coal deposits of the Mount Nicholas range in the Fingal district, and both companies are now sending coal into the market. In April the Specimen Reef Company (Hall's Creek, Corinna) was re-floated in Melbourne with increased capital. Tests of half a ton of lode stuff sent to Melbourne, gave from 157 to 162oz. of gold to the ton.

The imports of the colony for the ten months ended October 30 were—Launceston, £857,342, Hobart £532,442, total £1,389,784. The exports for same period were—Launceston £859,849, Hobart £257,481, total £1,117,330. The mineral exports for the eleven months ending November 30 were—Gold 27,500ozs., value £107,559; tin and tin ore, 3314 tons, value £317,360.

The Launceston Marine Board has effected visible improvements in the harbour during the year. The new hopper dredge ordered from England in March, 1885, which cost £3500, commenced work early in July, and with the No. 1 dredge, has been kept at work ever since. The much talked of "bar" has been found to be composed of gravel, mud, and logs, a large quantity of which have been removed, there now being at the place in question a depth of 12 ft. at low water. During the last session of Parliament a bill was passed giving the board power to reclaim such land belonging to the Crown, or private owners, as was covered at high water by the waters of the Tamar, North Esk, and South Esk rivers, the land so reclaimed to revert to the Crown. There has been a slight increase in the revenue of the port during the year, the receipts for the first 11 months of 1886 being £7,911 3s., as compared with £7,857 in 1885. The expenditure, however, has increased to a much greater extent, this being accounted for by the carrying out of extensive wharf improvements. For the 11 months ending November 30th, expenditure was £21,937 15s., against £19,612 in 1885. At the beginning of the last session of Parliament the Government were asked to introduce a bill for £20,000 for the improvement of the Tamar. They, however, did not see fit to comply with the request, and after some difficulty a bill was passed voting £10,000 for the purpose named. One of the most important acts of the board during the year has been the reduction of the pilotage and towage rates, against which a cry has frequently been raised by the captains of vessels visiting this port. From the 4th inst. the pilotage rates will be reduced by one-half, and towage rates by a third, the light-house dues being also lowered by the passing of the Marine Board's Amendment Act. The extension of the Queen's wharf, commenced by Messrs. Plummer and Griffiths on January 19, 1885, was completed in August, and the board then decided to asphalt and sheath the wharf, which has been done by their own workmen. Mr. J. A. Austin's tender for renewal of the Market Wharf at £2,200 was accepted, and on June 10, an agreement entered into to complete the work by March 10, 1887, but it is expected that the work will be completed by the end of the present month. In September, a ferry between the Queen's Wharf and Inveresk was opened. The work of pulling down and removing the buildings at the Smelting Work's Wharf is now being carried out, and in a few weeks the roadway leading from the Queen's Wharf to the Tamar-street bridge will be clear. The late secretary of the board, Mr. G. M. Eddie, obtained leave of absence in March last, and Mr. A. Evershed was appointed acting secretary. On account of the death of Mr. Eddie, on August 31, the secretaryship became vacant, and it is probable that Mr. Evershed will be appointed. On account of the ill-health of the late Shipping Master, Captain G. Smart, he was granted leave of absence about two months ago, but died on the 18th ultimo. Mr. Evershed has performed the duties of Shipping Master in conjunction with those of secretary.

The tonnage of vessels entering the port during the first eleven months of the past year suffers by comparison with 1885, the figures being as follow:—Inter-colonial—1886, 80,140 tons; 1885, 80,082; 1884, 80,424; 1883, 77,248. Foreign—1886, 12,770 tons; 1885, 15,756; 1884, 11,867; 1883, 8545. The decrease in foreign tonnage is due to the fact that in 1885 several vessels arrived with large quantities of railway material. Five large steamers visited the port during the year, the Ellerslie appearing on two occasions. In the early part of the year there was considerable competition in the Melbourne and North-West Coast trade, the steamers Australia, Bellinger, and Moreton all being engaged. The first-named was withdrawn, and the trade of the Bellinger, which belonged to the Belfast and Korait Steam Navigation Company, was purchased by Messrs. Howard Smith and Sons, the owners of the Moreton. In September the T.S.N. Company purchased the Moreton, and has since put the s.s. Mangana on the line, the Moreton at present running between Hobart and Sydney. There have been several disasters, the principal being the wreck of the T.S.N. Company's s.s. Esk on the Hebe Reef on April 24, Captain J. Evans, who was in charge, subsequently having his certificate cancelled. The steamer Colleen Bawn, bound from the Almont lime kilns to Hobart with a deck cargo of lime, capsized in the Derwent, off Triffitt's Point, near Bridgewater, on January 5, five lives being lost. On February 18 the Union Company's steamship Waihora struck on a rock abreast of Eddystone Point, and was beached at Swan Island to prevent her foundering. She was got off safely on the 21st inst., and proceeded on her voyage. The barque Howard, from Grande Bay, in the St. Lawrence River, Canada, to Melbourne, was on 4th March stranded near Ringarooma Bay, on the N.E. Coast, was sold, floated off, and brought into the Tamar River for repairs. The Russian warship Vestnik arrived here on May 6, sailing again for New Zealand on May 15. On October 2 the Kent's Group lighthouse was struck by lightning, and was considerably injured, being in darkness for three days.

The obituary list for 1886 is neither so lengthy, nor so full of the names of public men and leading citizens as that of last year, though it contains the names of many old colonists. The following are the most prominent records:—Jan. 23, Mr. D. Lewis, aged 63, who was Colonial Treasurer in the Crowther Ministry, and twice Mayor of Hobart; Feb. 7, Mr. John Gatenby, of Pisa, Lake River, aged 84; Feb. 19, Mr. W. Hutchinson, of the firm of Smith and Hutchinson, aged 70; Feb. 18, at the Cascades Lunatic Asylum, "Blind Mooney," probably the last survivor of the "black days" of Port Arthur; March 30, Mr. James Propsting, Superintendent of Selby Police, aged 64; April 29, Mr. F. J. P. Norman, Registrar of Bankruptcy and Deputy Sheriff at Launceston, aged 39; April 27, Mrs. Mary Begent, aged 87, who emigrated to Tasmania from England in 1816; June 8, Mr. Peter Mills, of Launceston, aged 58; June 5, Henry Reading, of Launceston, aged 54; June 7, Mr. William Oliver, of Dunorlan, aged 74; June 14, Mr. W. H. Walker, of Hobart, formerly a leading cricketer, aged 51; July 7, Miss Lucy Beedon, of Badger Island, aged 57, known as "The Queen" of the Straits Islands; July 10, Rev. C. Dubourg, at Longford, aged 57; July 8, at London, Mr. Robert Dowling, artist, formerly of Launceston, aged 56; July 23, Mr. Robert Lyall, of Westbury, aged 83; July 22, Mr. J. P. Mitchell, of the Blythe, aged 77; Aug. 17, at Hobart, Mr. John Woodcock Graves, in his 100th year, arrived in Hobart in 1833; Aug. 16,

Mr. W. H. King, of Longford, aged 65; Aug. 23, Rev. E. Freeman, M.A., of Hobart, aged 68; Aug. 31, Mr. G. M. Eddie, aged 68, Secretary to the Launceston Marine Board since 1857, and also Secretary to the Chamber of Commerce; Sept. 12, Mr. William Jones, of the Forth, aged 70, one of the pioneers of the Northwest Coast half a century ago; Sept. 22, Mr. Thomas T. Cooley, of New Town, near Hobart, aged 81; Sept. 18, Mr. J. D. Jowett, of Torquay, aged 58; Oct. 2, Rev. W. Dawson, of Westbury, aged 32; Nov. 4, Captain John Watson, of Hobart, aged 83, the oldest whaling captain in the colony; Nov. 20, Captain J. R. Young, Marine Superintendent in T. S. N. Company's service; Nov. 27, Mr. Robert Jones, of Riccarton, near Campbell Town, aged 62; Dec. 18, Captain George Smart, Shipping Master at Launceston, aged 66; Dec. 26, Mr. George Oliver, of Launceston, aged 73.

The trustees for the Tasmanian Museum at Hobart, taken over by the Government from the Royal Society, were appointed on January 18. The Rechab Lodge, I.O., was opened at Hobart on January 27, and the Eastern Star Lodge, 359, I.C., at Upper Kingarooma on March 11. On February 8 the Wesleyan Ladies College, Launceston, which cost, including furniture and land, nearly £10,000, was opened, the Rev. Spencer Williams being president, and Miss Swindells, lady principal. In April Mr. G. S. Perrin, from South Australia, was appointed the first Conservator of Forests in Tasmania. The Launceston Academy of Music was opened on February 8, under the lesseeship of Mr. T. Sullivan, by the Holloway Dramatic Company. On the 19th April the Launceston Omnibus Co. was formed. In April, Swan Island was connected by cable with the main land, and the N.W. Coast telegraph line was duplicated. Mr. Owen forwarded to the Government in April a report on the Friendly Societies of Tasmania, and fresh legislation was promised by Ministers, but was not introduced into Parliament. The Loyal Scotsdale Lodge, M.U., was opened at Ellesmere on May 6. In May an Australian rifle team was sent home to compete at Wimbledon, the Tasmanian representatives being Captain J. H. Room, of Launceston, and Lieutenant E. T. Watchorn, and W. Golding, of Hobart. The Tasmanian scholar for 1886 was Master Arthur Leslie Giblin, son of Mr. Justice Giblin. On October 27 a Pharmaceutical conference was held at Melbourne, Tasmania being represented by Mr. Landon Fairthorne, of Launceston, who was elected president. In September William Oakes, of Hobart, was sentenced to death for the murder of his wife, but the sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life. In December Timothy Walker was sentenced to death for the murder at Melbourne, on December 2, of Benjamin Hampton, and the Executive decided to carry out the penalty. In November the St. Joseph's band visited Sydney, and obtained the first prize in a band contest at the Intercolonial Fire Brigade Demonstration. On December 15 an Industrial Exhibition was opened at the Launceston Town Park, under the management of Mr. F. Gee Duff.

Above matter shows a statement of the revenue for the past year, and the result does not bear out the glowing predictions of the Treasurer. In making his financial statement on 29th July, 1885, the Treasurer estimated the revenue for 1886 at £582,885, the estimated expenditure being £586,756, and the deficiency on all accounts at the close of 1886 (including a debit balance from the previous year being £6263. On 31st August last, the Treasurer again presented a financial statement, in which the revenue of 1886, as re-estimated, was set down at £600,550, and the expenditure at £603,056. The year commenced with a probable deficiency of £3755, and the estimated deficiency at its close was set down at £6862. The actual receipts for 1886 amount to £564,343, and there is another £10,850 estimated as outstanding, £5000 of which, reduction of guaranteed interest on Main Line, is likely to prove a myth. In the Budget speech of 1885, £12,000 was estimated from this source: in 1886 the estimate was reduced to less than one half, and in 1887 we shall probably find it tapered to still slimmer proportions, and counter-balanced by charges against the Government for running powers over the Main Line. But even supposing the Treasurer's anticipations are realised, the revenue for 1886 will only be £575,193, or £25,000 below the estimated receipts. The deficit may be roughly summed up as follows:—Customs receipts have fallen short of anticipations by £9000, land tax by £1600, inland revenue by £4500, territorial revenue by £4000, railways by £3000, and miscellaneous receipts by £2500. There is, however, little fear of our expenditure not reaching anticipations, and supplementary estimates will largely swell the £603,056 estimated in August as the expenditure for last year. There are also various items which the Council refused in 1885 to include in the Loans Bill, and which last session the Government did not make provision for, leaving their consideration over until 1887, in hopes that the "chapter of accidents" during the next twelve months might furnish a solution of the difficulty. Instead, therefore, of the "estimated deficiency on all accounts" at the end of 1886 being only £6862, the financial statement presented to the Assembly in June next will probably have to run thus :—

Deficiencies from 1885	3,755
Ditto on current account, 1886	28,463
Supplementary estimates	20,000
Disputed public works.....	15,900
Ditto defences	5,000

£73,118

The deficiency on all accounts with which 1887 will commence, will certainly not be less than £73,000, and may prove to be more. We complained last year that Ministers had not fairly faced the financial position of the colony, but a complaisant Parliament accepted everything put before it, and looked upon the few members of the opposition who combated the Treasurer's figures as political Cassandras. It is, however, painfully evident that even the Coalition Government cannot further cloak the necessity for new taxation, but whether its leaders will be in their places when Parliament again meets remain to be seen.

LAUNCESTON
EQUITABLE
BUILDING SOCIETY,
(ESTABLISHED 1870.)

Offices - Patterson Street, Launceston.

This is the LARGEST AND MOST POPULAR BUILDING SOCIETY in Tasmania, and it offers the HIGHEST ADVANTAGES to all classes of Members.

— LOANS —

are granted on FREEHOLD OR LEASEHOLD SECURITIES in any sum from £25 to £5000. One of the chief objects of the Society is to enable all who now pay rent to become owners of their homes by easy and convenient payments.

ADVANCES

are also made on all descriptions of LAND in Town or Country. The following table shows the REDUCED REPAYMENTS for an advance of £100;—

Term of Years	Monthly.	Quarterly.	Half-Yearly.	Yearly.
5	£2 0 6	£6 2 4	£12 6 8	£25 1 0
7	1 11 2	4 14 0	9 9 4	19 4 2
10	1 4 4	3 13 2	7 7 2	14 18 0
15	19 2	2 17 6	5 15 8	11 18 8

THESE Repayments include Principle and Interest, and BORROWERS participate in the PROFITS. LOANS may be paid off at any time on very favorable terms.

INVESTING SHARES, either Subscribing or Paid-up, are issued daily.

DEPOSITS are received at any time for any period, and for any sum from £1, upwards, upon which interest is given at Highest Current Rates, payable Half-Yearly.

PROSPECTUSES, Forms of Application, and all information may be obtained at the Office of the Society.

LADIES' SCHOOL,
BROADLAND HOUSE, LAUNCESTON,
TASMANIA.

Principal - Miss Hogg.

ASSISTED BY AN EFFICIENT STAFF OF RESIDENT AND VISITING TEACHERS.

— o —

This School is situated in one of the healthiest parts of Launceston, and has ample grounds attached to it.

Particular attention is given to the physical education of the pupils.

The following are the honours for 1886:—Matriculation; Council of Education Exhibition (the only one as yet gained from a Ladies' School in the North).

The School is recognised as a superior School by the Tasmanian Council of Education.

Prospectuses may be obtained from the Principal, or from Walch Bros. and Birchall, Launceston.

LADIES' SCHOOL.

Charles Street, Launceston,
Conducted by Mrs. F. Richards.

— o —

MRS. RICHARDS has been long and most successfully engaged in tuition, both in England and Tasmania.

A thoroughly sound English education is imparted to all.

Special attention is paid to the dull or backward.

French Classes form part of the school routine.

Music and Singing by efficient teachers.

A Class for boys under ten years of age.

PROSPECTUS UPON APPLICATION.

EMU BAY DISTRICT ALPHABETICAL DIRECTORY.

Police District of Emu Bay. This district comprises the settlements of Emu Bay and Table Cape, the coast line extending from the river Blythe to the Sisters' Creek; it includes the Mount Bischoff tin mines. Townships—Burnie, at Emu Bay, about 50 miles from Stanley, 12 miles from Wynyard, and 102 from Launceston; it is a port of entry. Wynyard, 114 miles from Launceston. Somerset, on the west bank of the river Cam.

The Police District of Emu Bay is divided into the road districts of Table Cape, Emu Bay, and Waratah (Mount Bischoff). A separate Directory is given for each District.

RUSSELL DISTRICT ALPHABETICAL DIRECTORY.

:o:

Police District of Russell (known as Circular Head).—The District of Russell is the largest in Tasmania, and embraces immense tracts of country entirely unknown. Its coast line extends from the Sister's Creek round the north-west angle of the island, nearly to Macquarie Harbour. The boundaries enclose parts of the counties of Wellington, Russell, and Montagu.

Townships.—Stanley, 157½ miles from Launceston, by rail, via Deloraine. It is a port of entry and clearance; rise and fall of tide, 8ft. Smithton, on the Duck River, 13 miles to west of Stanley, is thinly inhabited, but considerable shipments are made from it; also from the flourishing settlement at the Montagu, 30 miles west of Circular Head.
